The Magic of Christmas in Limerick!

Christmas in Bedford Row

Great Scott!

10 years ago this November Irish family owned Pamela Scott opened its first shop outside of Dublin in the Crescent Shopping Centre in Dooradoyle, Co Limerick.

The discerning women of Limerick loved the store so much that Pamela Scott eventually had to open a second shop in Limerick city centre in 2008 to keep up with demand.

Pamela Scott has always been synonymous with quality garments and outstanding customer service, but this season there is an additional decidedly decadent focus with touches of vintage luxury from the 40's, 50's and 60's being brought to garments in the new autumn / winter collections.

Leather trims, fun furs, dresses with suede or metallic belts along with silk, sheer and satin finish blouses are but some of the items shoppers will find in-store and on-line. The feel of each garment is as essential as the look and, with many items such as those featured in this shoot available for €50 - €90, it's all for nothing less than a bargain.

The luxurious feel continues through the colour schemes; rich camel, taupe, burnt orange, reds, purples and black are the dominant themes with lots of scope for both brave and conventional mixing and matching across the labels.

Sizes in Pamela Scott stores and at www.pamelascott.ie range from 8 – 20 across most labels. All of the shoes, bags and other accessories featured in this shoot are also from Pamela Scott. Ranges are updated in stores nationwide about every two weeks.

The Magic of Christmas in Limerick!

Catherine Street

We're dreaming of a Silver Christmas on Catherine Street

"Morintino Silver" is a stylish and elegant jewellery shop that is situated on Catherine Street, owned and operated by Limerick businessman Morin. Opened in November 2010, this modern and unique boutique offers customers an array of exclusive pieces of jewellery ranging from beautiful bracelets, stunning earrings and exquisite necklaces to suit all tastes. Morin specialises in sterling silver and fine silver which are hallmarked and are guaranteed quality pieces with a high standard of craftsmanship. Silver is considered the most famous precious metal that is used in jewellery design today, and is very cost effective with pieces starting from €15 and upward, the collections that are available to buy are magnificent, contemporary pieces that are right on trend with today's fashion.

Morin has lived in Limerick for ten years and considers this his home and is committed to supporting the local economy and helping to provide jobs. He does this through using Irish jewellery designers from Annacotty, Newcastle West and elsewhere in Co Limerick where they showcase exclusive and limited-edition pieces. The shop is proving to be a big hit and is now celebrating its one year anniversary. With this in mind Morin is planning a celebration that is both a thank you to his customers and a welcome to new ones. Number one for designer eyewear

Specsavers Limerick brings an affordable offering of more than 1,100 fashionable frames to the Crescent Shopping Centre, with designer brands such as GW by Gok Wan, fcuk, Tommy Hilfiger, Red or Dead and Quicksilver. Karen Millen eyewear is the newest addition to the female range. These fashion forward frames offer luxury quality, individual ity and effortless, polished glamour. The range encompasses key fashion trends and bold colour, bringing you a designer look within easy reach.

Also this month, Specsavers Limerick has teamed up with all-American favourite Timberland to bring a new collection of designer specs to the high street. The Timberland range is aimed at adventurous and style-conscious men and is the latest addition to Specsavers' extensive designer portfolio. Specsavers' Timberland range consists of 28 styles and colours, which share the rugged yet stylish spirit of the US brand's apparel and footwear collections.

Sinead Clohessy, Specsavers Limerick Store Director says: 'We're very happy Timberland has been launched as they are a new designer range designed especially for men. It's an internationally renowned brand with a strong family heritage, which makes it a perfect fit for Specsavers."

Specsavers Limerick's in store frame stylists are always on hand to help you choose the perfect pair of glasses to suit your individual look. For those who love to make a statement GW by Gok Wan are ideal and are inspired by four different decades of fashion. Gok Wan says "Make sure you choose specs to suit the shape of your face. The theory is that you should choose frames that are the opposite to the shape of your face, so if you have a round face you'll suit an angular frame. A rectangular face has high cheekbones and a deep forehead and is balanced by wide frames with a strong brow line at the top. But as long as your frames fit correctly and suit your prescription and lifestyle, it's ok to bend the rules and create a style that suits your personality".

Specsavers Limerick staff pride themselves on providing the best possible eye and ear healthcare service to customers at the Crescent Shopping Centre and are always striving to improve its service for the people of Limerick. Visit Specsavers today at 18X Garryowen Mall, Crescent Shopping Centre, Dooradoyle Limerick.

The Magic of Christmas in Limerick!

John Street

John Street

JOHN Street is a stone's throw away from St John's Cathedral and St John's Hospital - two well-known landmarks in the proud heart of Limerick.

You'll also find your fair share of pubs as well as printers (if you're making your own Christmas cards etc). And if motorbikes are your thing, John Street should be your route this Christmas.

As well as some of the locally famous takeaway food outlets, oriental and Polish food is also on offer at John Street.

With Christmas on the way, you could also hit the nearby health and fitness studio to cut down on your calorie intake.

You can also bring yourself and the hubby and the kids to the street to get their hair smartened up for the festive period or maybe plan how your kitchen will look in 2011.

John Street is the place to shop if you want to top up on your tan, check out your rights as a carer, buy a new fireplace, or check up on your dental health.

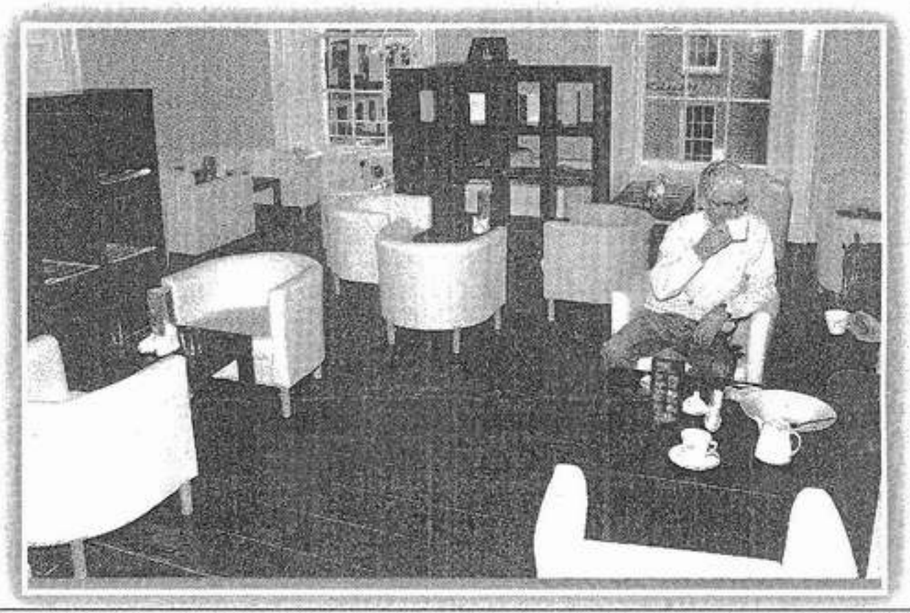
Keith Hennessy Bio

Keith began his chefing career in the internationally renowned Dromoland Castle . It was here that he first experienced the nuances of fine dining and developed his creative flair and passion for food. Through Dromoland Castle he obtained a scholarship with the Professional Cookery Course in Limerick Institute of Technology. On finishing this he was quickly snapped up by the Galway Bay Hotel as junior sous chef. From there he travelled to New Zealand where he found his love for seafood in the world's 4th largest seafood capital.

After spending 1 year in New Zealand he returned home to open 3 restaurants located across Kerry and Tipperary. From there, with a wealth of knowledge in the catering sector he consulted in the opening of HMS Host in Shannon Airport , Chocolat Restaurant in O'Connell St, Limerick and Coco Restaurant, Ennis. Keith also worked as Senior Sous chef in McLaughlin's award winning fine dining restaurant at the Castletroy Park Hotel as well as popular restaurants in Limerick such as Moll Darbys and the Green Onion. Keith joined up with Stephen in the new Azur Restaurant, Georges Quay, where they developed as a chefing team giving them the inspiration to open The Red Onion Brasserie.

The Red Onion Brasserie

Opened last May under the guidance of Former Azur Ex Head Chef Stephen Griffen & Award winning Ex Head Chef Keith Hennessy, since then the brassererie has grown from strength to strength city. With such a high demand for quality food at affordable prices the Red Onion Brassrie choice of an early bird 3 course menu for €21.50 and an 5 course Evening menu for €30.00 is outstanding. With the sucsess of the Brasserie, they have now opened a unique café located on the first floor or 74 O' Connell st.



Stephen Griffin Bio

Stephen Griffin, the grandson of Sean Ó Murchú, former Head Chef of the once renowned Lindbergh Room, he started his career in the Texas Steakhouse. It was here he learned the workings of the kitchen which ignited his passion for the trade. This highly experienced chef worked in many places over the years, building up a vast repertoire of culinary knowledge. It was in Gooser's Ballina that he developed the love for seafood, which would be the signature in all his future menus.

Stephen worked as the executive head chef of Azur Limerick for over four years. He was head chef of the successful O' Connell St venue and also was central to the thriving new Azur on Georges quay, helping to build up its reputation as a fish lovers delight.

Today he is the chef/proprietor of The Red Onion Brasserie, using his 15 years experience to create mouth-watering dishes. The innovated menu will awaken your palate and immerse you in the flavours of a new era

Parnell Street is also the first street one steps out onto from the platform of Colbert Rail Station on the south side of Limerick City.

Students arriving by the bus load or train carriage descend on Parnell Street for a host of amenities, including restaurants, takeaway outlets, pubs, and a strong of other shops and premises.

One of the busiest streets in Limerick City, traffic is constantly moving through this part of Limerick as taxi's deliver and pick up people to and from the city's railway station.

Parnell Street, which was formerly known as Nelson Street, is named after one of Ireland's most famous sons, Charles Stewart Parnell.

Charles, was born in 1846 and died at the age of 45, is remembered as one of the greatest leaders Ireland has ever had.

He was the first President of the National Land League and as a member of Parliament, he made the British people conscious of Ireland's claim to self government.

Roches Street has it all

SANDWICH shops, restaurants, and coffee houses are a feature of Roches Street, attracting tired shoppers to rest their weary feet and enjoy a nice hot cuppa or to fill up on a healthy snack before hitting the outside bustle again. This is a proud, bustling street with great retailers.

With bridal rooms and jewellers, butchers, cleaning suppliers, fashion, computers, and antiques, you can't go wrong when choosing a present for your loved one this Christmas.

Roches Street, like much of the cityscape is to be pedestrianised in a major €50 million Regeneration Plan that will transform Limerick into one of Europe's most vibrant and living centres.

The future plan for Roches Street is included in the City Council's overall plan for the remodelling and pedestrianisation of Limerick's centre and the development of a new Orbital Route that will still give traffic access to the heart of the city.

The idea is to get rid of car traffic and increase footfall in the city centre by create complete walkways of O'Connell Street between William Street and Roches Street. The widening of footpaths and improved landscaping will give priority to pedestrians over cars.

Limerick City Council Director of Traffic and Infrastructure Pat Dromey explained: "The history of pedestrianisation is that it brings increased footfall to streets and a better trading environment.

"Limerick traders who experienced pedestrianisation to date have stated publicly that it has improved their business."

Mr Dromey added: "The one way orbital routes in city centres are considered a very efficient and safe way of moving traffic with up to 50% less turning at junctions and a decreased risk of collision."

The remodelling works will include high quality pavements, improved pedestrian crossings, new street furniture, tree planting and the removal of some on-street parking.

The Magic of Christmas in Limerick!

Shannon Street

Modern meets classic in Henry Street and Shannon Street

HENRY Street is a main access points for traffic maneuvering in and around the city's shopping districts and has itself undergone a facelift any European capital city would be proud of.

The street has become something of a modern business sector in Limerick, with tall glass offices and sleek stylish architecture.

Some of Limerick City's greatest rugby pubs are located on Henry Street, as well as business services and school uniform accessories to name but a few.

Henry Street and Shannon Street are home to many businesses including electrical stores, cafes and shopping centers.

Parking is also on offer just off Henry Street on Lower Shannon Street where a multi-storey car park stands. A new five-star hotel recently opened on Henry Street and the thoroughfare in question also facilitates the latest in leisure clothing and equipment, as well as traditional buildings from the city's past.

Shannon Street is home to the side entrance of another city centre hotel and cafes, pubs, business premises and the old Stella Bingo Hall, which has been run for more than 20 years.

The older generation of Limerick people will remember with affection the Theatre Royal in Henry Street. It was the second theatre in the city to bear the name. The first Theatre Royal was built in 1770 by one Tottenham Heaphy in Cornwallis Street, now Lower Gerald Griffin Street, and was destroyed by fire in 1818.

In 1810 another theatre was built in George's Street, now O'Connell Street, but after a brief career of some twelve years was purchased by the Augustinian Fathers and converted into a church. Limerick remained without a theatre until in 1841. Joseph Fogerty purchased a plot of ground in Henry Street and on it erected a new Theatre Royal, a dwelling house for himself and a row of houses in the lane off Lower Mallow Street, known as Fogerty's Range or Theatre Lane.

The theatre was a one-story building, with the main entrance in the centre of the Henry Street frontage.

In 1922, despite several hours in which to save it, the Limerick Theatre Royal was burned to the ground. The curtain had come down for the last time on the old Royal of happy memories.

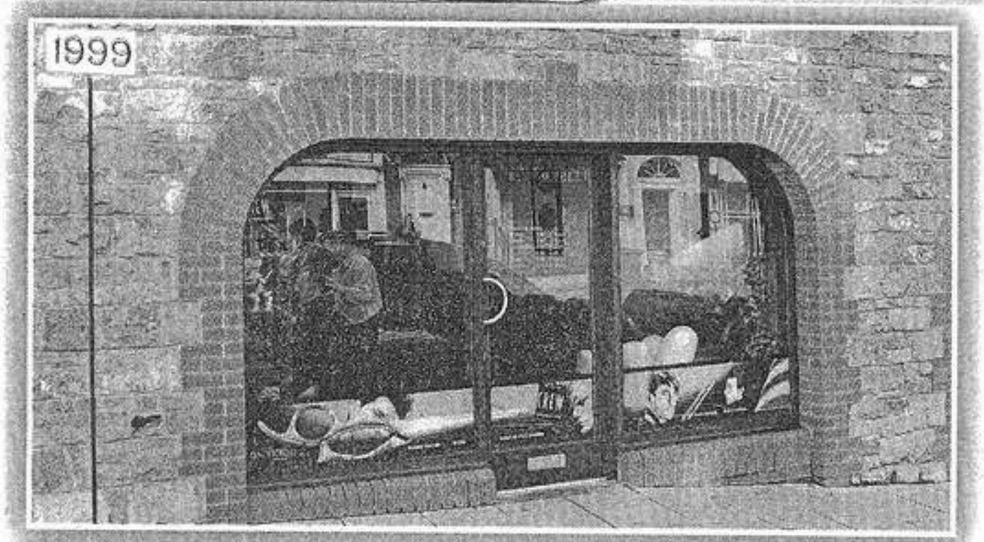
The Magic of Christmas in Limerick!

Thomas Street



Thomas Street

THOMAS Street has been transformed into one of the city's most popular shopping and meeting points and was once again this year the location where Irish pop rock group 'The Coronas', switched on Limerick's Christmas lights.

Where lines of parked cars clogged up the area, the street now exudes a real European feel with many cafes, bars and restaurants the perfect place for people watching.

The total cost of delivering the new look shopping experience in Limerick City has been in excess of €10 million, and the main purpose of the project was to create a pedestrian-friendly environment that encourages people to spend more time in and to enjoy the City Centre, which it certainly has been.

The improvements scheme extends the pedestrian-friendly character of Thomas Street (lower) and Bedford Row up to Wickham Street, where expansive footpaths of high quality paving materials, new street lights, trees and street furniture combine to give a fresh contemporary approach that reinforces the role of the area as one of the prime shopping destinations of the City Centre.

Traders, who have created attractive outdoor eating areas, giving Limerick a modern sheen, have further enhanced the environment of Thomas Street and other parts.

Even though on-street parking has been removed from this part of the city centre there is still an abundance of off-street parking available just off the main streets in the Anne Street, Harvey's Quay and Howley's Quay multi-storey car parks.

Thomas Street is reputed to be named after Thomas Unthank who was a prominent Limerick City merchant but there is no documentary evidence to support this. A point to consider is that a Thomas Orde was Chief Secretary during the time that Edmund Sexton Pery was speaker in the House of Commons. Perhaps there is a connection here, particularly as the adjacent Wickham Street was named after William Wickham, another Chief Secretary. The name Thomas Street appears in the map prepared by Christopher Colles in the mid 18th Century although at that time it was located where Sarsfield Street now exists.
