[FROM THE "PILOTE DE GALVADOS."]

On Thursday last, in this city (Caen), Captain William Harrison, of Castle Harrison, county Cork, Ireland, terminated his long and honorable career, aged 90. In him England lost one of the oldest officers of her Army, and our city one of the worthiest and most respectable men that ever came here, after many years service, to enjoy rest and well merited repose. He has taken with him to the tomb the esteem and well merited respect of his fellow countrymen, as well as of all the inhabitants of this city. A pious Catholic, having received the Sacraments of the Church, he died in the arms of Miss Harrison, who consecrated her life to the happiness of her excellent and venerable father.
