OLD BAAL'S BRIDGE.

Another artist's impression of Baal's Bridge, probably of a later date than the one on the preceding page. Lock Quay, in the foreground, would seem to have been reclaimed from an examination of this drawing. At this time Lock Quay was a fish market. There is a nice watercolour of this in the National Gallery.