

to have been by an injury. F. O'Connor, Croom, said that plaintiff was in the hospital. There is evidence of recent injury. A witness found on such as could have been by a kick. Plaintiff was operated on for a complaint which could have been aggravated by an injury. Plaintiff was in the hospital on the day it would not be fit for him to do about three or four days. There was still a slight complaint but it was not serious and plaintiff should now be able to do ordinary farm work. The Judge witnesses that the injuries would not have been aggravated with having received a kick probably aggravated plaintiff to look for on.

PLAINTIFF'S EVIDENCE.

Brown, plaintiff, said that on the Sunday morning of last week his brother was cut off the fallen tree. While witness's brother was out and in going out he saw his brother and his wife in the garden and they appeared to be in a great hurry. Plaintiff asked the defendant to leave and let the tree be decided by the court; and he also told them they were trespassing on his land and asked them to leave. Mrs. Doherty said that the tree was cut and they would take it. Plaintiff and defendant went into a tussle and when plaintiff intervened defendant drew a knife at him and stunned plaintiff and his brother were in one another. Witness saw a dinner fork off the defendant, who was standing apparently anxious for a fight. Plaintiff added that the kick he got from defendant was a premeditated kick and he thought that if he got the chance, he would have away with his brother. There was never a word said between witness and the Dohertys. Defendant married his second wife as a result of the kick witnessed by Dr. O'Brien. Plaintiff had an operation at the Hospital. During his illness he had to be engaged to do ordinary farm work.

Mr. Danaher, plaintiff's counsel, said only for his intervention in the occasion the incident would have been a lot more serious than

Brown, brother of the plaintiff, said he was cutting limbs from the fallen tree when the defendant came into the haggard garden. A struggle ensued between the plaintiff and the defendant. Plaintiff he won the silver medal for landscape at the Tailteann Games. Four years later he was awarded a silver and bronze medal for drawing. In 1938 MacGonigal was elected an associate member of the Royal Hibernian Academy and in the same year he secured the further distinction of being appointed Assistant Professor of Painting, National College of Art, Dublin.

It should be of interest to note that Mr. MacGonigal is represented by works in many private and public collections, including the art galleries of Limerick, Dublin, Cork and Belfast.

The exhibition, one of the finest yet to be held in the city, will be continued to 17th inst.

CITY TRAGEDY

CHILD'S FALL FROM WINDOW

A sad tragedy occurred in Shannon Street shortly before eight o'clock on Monday night, when a two-years-old girl named Margaret O'Shaughnessy fell from the window of the upper storey of her parents' home. The child, whose skull was fractured, died some minutes after being picked up by passers-by. She had apparently climbed over the window and overbalanced, falling a distance of about 40 feet.

At an inquest held in Barrington's Hospital yesterday afternoon by Mr. J. S. McNeice, solr., Deputy Coroner, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

CAUGHT 5½ LBS. TROUT

While fishing at Corbally last evening, Mr. Thomas Dillon, proprietor of Bernard's fishing tackle store in Rutland Street, landed one of the largest trout killed on that part of the river for a long number of years. The fish turned the scales at 5½ lbs. Mr. Dillon was fishing with a gold rail fly at the time. It took him 35 minutes to play out the monster trout.

NEW POTATOES

Clariford (writes our Killaloe correspondent) was first in the field again as regards the production of new potatoes in the Killaloe area. Tubers were dug there as early as the first week of May last. The first new potatoes on the market arrived from Ogonnoloe on Saturday last and sold at 4/- per stone.

he had to take the hatchet off him. Plaintiff then came out with a hay fork and held it in front of Mrs. Doherty and witness saw the two of them struggle and fall on the ground. Witness denied that Blegvads Disease—which was a form of primary tuberculosis of the glands.

Dr. J. G. Tynan, in evidence, stated that he carried out tests with a view to finding any indications of active or healed tuberculosis. He found from a clinical examination of lungs and chest no trace, past or present, of tuberculosis. A tuberculosis skin test, however, gave a positive reaction, and the glands at both sides of the neck gave the appearance of tubercular disease.

Dr. Sarah O'Malley, in evidence, stated that when she examined the applicant last July she formed the opinion that she was suffering from Blegvads Disease, but since it was a very rare disease she did not care to diagnose it until further tests confirmed its presence. The case was a very unusual one, and primary tuberculosis of the eye was the only condition in which the glands became infected from the eyes. The girl's eye had entirely cleared up, but the glands remained infected. These glands were subject to periodic outbreaks, and she considered the girl was not fit for work, apart from the undesirability of working at milking or near farm produce.

The applicant stated the glands continued to be very sore since they began to discharge last February and she was unable to sleep.

For the respondent,

Dr. O. McDonnell gave evidence of examining the applicant two weeks ago, and he formed the opinion she was much improved to what she had been when he examined her last July. The only remains of the original injury was a slight scar and a tenderness. He would not attribute the condition of the glands to the eye injury.

Replying to Mr. Liston, witness said he was aware that the original eye condition was cleared up, but the condition of the glands was due to the original injury. The disease was supposed to be rare, but within the past two years he had come across three almost similar cases. In his opinion the glands had dried up and he thought the girl was fit for work.

The Judge held that since the last review the girl's condition had deteriorated and he awarded compensation at the rate of 18s. 9d. per week.

THE MAYORALTY

A special meeting of the City Council will be held on Saturday 24th inst., for the purpose of electing one of their body to the office of Mayor.

In that connection, writes "Limerick Leader" representative it is known that the outgoing Mayor (Mr. James McQuane, P.C.) will not offer himself as a candidate for a second period of office.

It is understood that Ald. James Reidy, T.D., will be a candidate
