On Thursday morning, as Colonel Sir John Buchan, of the 29th Regiment, was returning from Cork to Kin-sale, with Lady Buchan in a gig, the former got out to refresh the horse at the half-way house, when the animal terrified by some noise on the road, set off suddenly at a furious rate, flinging away the servant who attempted to cling by his head, and dashed along the road for near four miles, to Cross Barry Water, where he was checked with great exertion by a countryman, when Lady Buchan fortunately got out in safety, and liberally rewarded her humane preserver.
