

following is the report of Lord Monteay director, to the Grand Jury of the county erick:—

ENTLEMEN—You will be asked to make a ntment of £288 17s 5d on account of divi-on the shares guaranteed by the county in rove railway, for the half-year ending 31st ber, 1892, being an increase of £40 10s 4d, pared with the corresponding half-year of he punctuality of the train service continues satisfactory. The acceleration of the day on the Waterford and Limerick system g been now provided for, the much-needed ection at Tralee between the Great Southern Western train from Killarney, and the ford and Limerick train to Limerick, is at arranged, thus enabling tourists to come ght through by this route without delay, from an arrangement there is every reason to exa considerable increase of that traffic. My are also trying to get the two companies to ge for a through carriage. The new time in connection with the above acceleration, affords, as I hoped, increased facilities for passenger traffic in the west of the county, I trust will be found convenient to the trang public generally.

I regret to say, however, that the recent reof the Board of Trade to allow more than mixed train (passenger and goods) a day each is likely seriously to impair the passenger service; and I think steps should be taken ing the matter before Parliament in order, ossible, to induce the Board of Trade to relax e which, however, well adapted to England, tally unsuited to branch lines in Ireland.
The Local Committee, mentioned in my last rt, has been continued with satisfactory re-
.—I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,
"MONTAEGLE."

23rd June, 1893."

THIS DAY.

he County Grand Jury sat shortly after noon ay, and went into the hearing of malicious ries applications.

PARISH OF ARDAGH.

Patrick Cremin was allowed £60 compensation the burning of hay, his property, in April of present year

PARISH OF BALLINGARRY.

James Keogh applied for £24 compensation for maiming of two bullocks and a heifer on the ht of the 17th February.

As evidence of malice it was stated that Keogh k an evicted farm, and he was described by geant Maguire as the most unpopular man in district in consequence.

£20 was allowed, the amount to be, after a ision on the subject, levied off the parish.

PARISH OF CLOUNCAGH.

Michael Roche was awarded £22 10s for the malicious maiming and injuring of a mare in l, on the 13th November, 1892.

PARISH OF MONAGEA.

Philip Manning applied for £20, and was alved $11, as compensation for a stack of hay, property, maliciously set fire to and almost olly destroyed on the 3rd April last

PARISH OF IVERUSS.

Kate Cooney was granted £10 for the destruc-on of a dwellinghouse, £20 having been asked, d the Road Sessions allowing £5. rities, by which crimes are returned under the head of intimidation which were of a more serious character. They handed the resolution to Mr. Justice Gibson, who accepted it.

They also adopted a resolution declaring that they had not, as stated in the House of Commons by the Chief Secretary, desired in March, 1892, to reduce the police force. They wanted to increase, they explained, the free force by reducing extra police. They also drew attention to the failure of justice, now of common occurrence, which could be remedied by putting in force their powers and changing the venue, as pointed out by the late meeting of Clare magistrates.
They also expressed their surprise that under the particular condition of Clare there was not a single soldier now stationed therein.

Copies were ordered to be sent to the Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, and Mr. Chamberlain.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN EVICTED TENANT.

We are deeply grieved to have to record the death of Mr. Michael Kett, one of the evicted tenants of Lord Cloncurry's property. One of the first farmers in Ireland to adopt the policy of eviction as a protest against unfair rents, the action of Michael Kett, and those who stood with him, will be cherished in grateful remembrance by thousands of Irish farmers all over the land. Were it not for the self-sacrificing action of the Cloncurry tenantry in the early days of the Land League, the fight against Irish landlordism all these years back would have had very little backbone indeed. Deceased was a comfortable farmer, and might have been able to make terms with his landlord, but he chose the principle of fighting for the common good, and preferred to live in a miserable shanty by the roadside to his former comfortable home, where his family had been for three generations. All honour to his memory. Would we had many more Nationa-lists of his kind in Ireland. In late years, too, when trouble came upon the Irish cause through the action of the Seceders, Michael Kett stood by the policy of the man who begged the world in order to attract attention to Irish grievances.
He did not, because he was an evicted tenant, forget his proverbial good nature for a mess of pottage. But decessed had to suffer, also, other hardships beside eviction. During the Forster regime his son was imprisoned for a period of eighteen months. His lot on the whole was not a happy one, but he had the consolation of knowing that his country looked to him with pride as one of her most faithful servants.
Deceased was 82 years of age. The funeral took place to-day to Abington, and the cortege was of immense proportions.

THE COUNTY MILITIA.

Previous to being disbanded on Friday next, the County Militia were officially inspected on yesterday and to-day, by Colonel E. A. Brind, Commandant, Regimental District, Tralee. The
