message from the American Roman Catholic Bishops, in which they say—

"In this fateful hour, when the future of Ireland trembles in the balance, it is not our desire, your Eminence, that any words of ours should imperil the outcome of those deliberations, upon which a world awaits with bated breath.

"Our prayers ascend from every altar in the land, after Ireland's stormy history of seven hundred years, that this most Apostolic race among all of God's peoples may receive the reward for what they have done for the Church of America and elsewhere by obtaining the fulfilment of their national aspirations, and, finally, that God may grant you and your colleagues to live to see Ireland's golden age, and find your people even more faithful to their Church in the sunburst of their new freedom than even they were in the years of their exile and expectancy.— Your Eminence's devoted servants in Christ,

"ARCHBISHOPS AND BISHOPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

"WILLIAM CARDINAL O'CONNELL"

In reply, his Eminence sent the following cable:
"Your message will stir to the depths the hearts of the Irish people for their sense of gratitude, coming after the splendid proofs of sympathy already given."
