WATSON & MAHONY,

Title it traitered something acres and an ordered MR. WILLIAMS, OCULIST, from London, respectfully announces his arrival in this City, and of his intention to remain until THURSDAY NEXT, the 21st Inst. but positively no longer*. Mr. WILLIAMS wishes to render himself as useful as possible to every one who may be afflicted with any Complaints in their Eyes or Eyelids, and begs to state that all Classes may obtain his opinion without Fee, at Mr. MACABOY's, Upholsterer, in Patrick-Street, in the following order, viz .- Ladies and Gentlemen, from Noon till Two; and persons in Business, &c. from Two till Five o'Clock. The Poor are requested to attend at Nine o'Clock every Morning, who will not only have his opinion, but his best Services, without Fee, during his visit' Patrick-Street, Cark. October 19, 1813.

* From the City of Cork, Mr. WILLIAMS intends to visit the Lakes of Killarney, where he will also gladly give his opinion, on the 93.1, 24th, and 25th; at Tralee, the 27th and 28th; at Limerick, the 30th and 51st October, and 1st and 2d November; at Athlone, the 4th, 5th, and 6th; again at No. 24, Westmoreland-Street, in the City of Dublin, the 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th; at Drogheda, the 13th and 14th; at Dundalk, the 16th and 17th; at Newry, the 19th, 20th, & 21st; at Downpatrick, the 23d and 24th; at Belfast, the 26th, 27th, and 28th; at Coleraine, the 30th, 1st and 2d December; at the Giant's Causeway, the 4th and 5th; and at Donaghadee, the 8th, 9th, and 10th December; in order to give his opinion (without any Fee) to all Persons afflicted with Inflammations of the Eyes or Eyelids, or with short, dim, weak, or defective Vision, or even BLINDNESS, who could not make it convenient to visit him at No. 3, Red Lion-Square, London, where the Nobility and Gentry continue to be received by his Son; & the Poor gratis, at the Royal General Dispensary, 98, High Holborn, London, by an Assistant, as usual.

" It is with pleasure we record that in a very great variety of instances, benefit has been received at Clonmel, from the application of the composition of Mr. Williams, the Oculist, from London. Many have been induced, from motives of humanity, to inspect the method of treatment adopted by Mr. Williams, and from an investigation of the cases any results of his applications, to consider his plan both safe and rational. The annexed document from an eminent Physician, just put into our hands, supersedes the necessity of our saying more on the subject .- (Copied from the Clonmel Advertiser, of October 9, 1813.)

" Dr. Constable, being induced from motives of cu-" riosity, to attend to the cases that have been under tha " superintendance of Mr. Williams, and his plan of "treatment, whilst in Clonmel, presents him his comof pliments, and informs him, he can have no objection " to state, that, in his opinion, several persons labouring " under Opthalmia, and other inveterate diseases of the Eyes, have been greatly benefited by the application of his composition, even during the short period of " his residence in this Town. Dr. C. allows Mr. Wil-66 liams to make what use he pleases of his communi-" cation .- Dated Clonmel, October 8, 1813."

We are happy in submitting to our readers a copy of a letter sent to our Office, by Mr. Williams, which was received this day from two Gentlemen at Youghal, returning thanks to that Gentleman, on behalf of many persons who were benefited by him in the course of the last week at that place, one of whom now sees with one eye which had been BLIND SIXTY YEARS !!! We confess we should be a little inclined to scepticism, if we did not know that one of the signatures (Mr. R. Wood) was that of a Gentleman of great respectability, and one of our own Citizens, who is now on a visit at Youghal, for the benefit of his health. (A literal Copy.)

" SIR-Among the many afflicted persons relieved by your valuable medicine, during the three days of your being here, among others, one woman (Catherine Connor) of this town, aged over 63 years, came to us after you were gone for Cork, and declared with much apparent joy and gratitude, that though she was blind of her right eye Sixty Years, yet by four dressings, now can see as perfectly with that eye as with the other, of which she gave convincing proof, by covering her left eye, and discerning objects minutely, and telling the kind of buttons on our coats. She begs us to return you her most grateful thanks, which we hereby do, and hoping many others will be benefitted in other places .-We are, Sir, your obedient Servants,

WM. PATERSON, RICHARD WOOD, of Cork.

To Mr. WILLIAMS, Oculist, now at Cork. To the Editors of Newspapers. " GENTLEMEN-Public attention has been arrested in this place by the distribution of cards from the Oculist from London. You will of course conclude that our curiosity was excited as well as that of others, and being perfect strangers to Mr. Williams, and he to us, we attended this morning at the school-room announced for the reception of his patients, in order to examine if the apparent extraordinary benefit stated by many in this town since his arrival, really and truly existed. We consider this to be the more requisite for two reasonsfirst, from motives of humanity towards the numerously afflicted persons in the United Kingdom; and secondly, as a matter of justice to the Oculist, on proviso, that the various reports circulated by his patients were founded on fact. On the other hand, justice would have have prompted us, as Ministers, to have proclaimed to the world, could we possibly have discovered any thing like deception or duplicity. To be brief, we were astonished beyond measure, to hear the universal testimony, with only two or three exceptions or old and middle aged, and of parents in behalf of their children, that they received benefit and improvement of vision, although one of the patients, named Christopher Sharwood, declared himself to be $5 years of age, and in two or three instances sight has been produced where there had existed actual blindness either in one or both eyes .-The gratitude of the poor creatures was evident, and we are requested in their names to return thanks to that Gentleman, and to make public acknowledgment for the benefit they had gratuitously received during his visit. But here a difficulty of great importance struck our minds, which was as follows: How persons not being favored with personal attendance on Mr. Williams, could derive benefit from his medicines .-Mr. Williams in answer gave us to understand, that he avoided dressing the eyes of his patients, in a general way, leaving that part of his profession to one of his confidential servants, who travels with him purposely to evince, that the benefit derived, would be equally so if the applications were made to the affile id by any one in the family, without attending on, or even ever being seen by himself. This we consider to be very important information, and we are happy to give it sanction, by our united testimony-not on the ground of any friendship, interest, or emolument, which we altogether disclaim-ut on the broad basis of universal charity; and to give it as our opinion that no person afflicted with sore eyes, imperfect, vision or even blindness, will be justified, if it is in their power, without making trial of so likely a means for their recovery.

-And furthermore, in order that our own eyes having been dressed, and from the operation thereof, we are
