

sanitary connections were generally supplied, they would have made a good start. They should also see to the quick removal of refuse in cases in which there was occasion that it had to be deposited otherwise than in a proper receptacle. She felt that their friends of the Press could help a great deal if they let it go forth from that meeting that the Borough Council expected the collaboration of the citizens in the matter, and she knew that the Press by helping in that matter would be earning the gratitude of the members of the Corporation, and performing a great public service. They should all put their backs into it, and give it that publicity which was necessary, and some good results would be achieved.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN T. A. FLYNN, R.A.M.C.

We regret to announce the death which occurred this morning in St John's Hospital of Captain T. A. Flynn, R.A.M.C., eldest son of the late Mr James Flynn, to the great sorrow of his relatives. Captain Flynn was a long time ill, following his war service, and he never fully recovered from the effect of the wounds he sustained during the campaign. He qualified as medical officer some fifteen years ago, having barely attained his majority at the time, and later on he was Assistant Resident Medical Superintendent at Portrane Asylum, County Dublin, and next at the Norfolk County Asylum. On the outbreak of war he joined the Royal Army Medical Corps, and went on active service, to get badly wounded at Gallipoli. While recruiting his health subsequently he was engaged in various parts of Scotland, England, and the Isle of Wight examining and passing men into the Army. Subsequently he again went on active service at the Italian front, and for a time was chief medical officer at Bordighera. Later he was employed at special service after the war, his duties carrying him to China, from which he returned only in the mid-summer of last year. He never practically recovered from the effects of the wounds he received, and the privations he suffered through active service, and his death took place this morning after his trying illness, despite every attention paid to him.

The remains will be removed from St John's Hospital to St Michael's Parochial Church at 8.30 to-morrow night. There will be Office and High Mass for deceased at half-past ten o'clock on Monday morning, and the funeral will leave the Church at noon for the interment in Mount St Laurence Cemetery.

...from the mass of our fellow countrymen. We are not ashamed of our faith or of our ideals. We cherish them. When I was a country clergyman in Westmeath it did not occur, I think, to either body of Irishmen that they were tolerating the existence of their neighbours, or were being tolerated by them. A manner of speech has of late become not uncommon, which ought to be as offensive to the majority as it is insulting to the minority. It often seems to be implied that we of the minority ought to recognise with something of a surprised gratitude the fact that we are allowed to share any of the rights and liberties of ordinary citizens. I deprecate such a form of speech, and refuse to be grateful to anyone but the Almighty for permission to breathe the air of my native land (Applause) If hundreds of my fellow-countrymen are leaving the country, they are doing so for no light cause, and are certainly not urged by unmanly panic. They know why they go, and they go to the great and permanent loss of Ireland, which needs their enterprise, their brains, their love of freedom, spiritual as well as political. In their inmost hearts, they had no desire for that long vanished ascendancy of which the stirrers-up of strife spoke, as if it were a thing of to-day. They wished to live in peace and amity with all Irishmen, and prayed that peace may soon come, and were resolved that the coming of peace would not be hampered by any act or word of theirs inspired by sinful motives or private interests.

LIMERICK COUNTY COUNCIL.

Limerick County Council had before them to-day tenders for the printing contract from Messrs Thom, Dublin, £900; Messrs McKern, Limerick, £777, and Messrs Chapman, Athlone, £749. A deputation from the Limerick Typographical Society attended to support the claim of Limerick to be considered for reason adduced. The Council unanimously gave the contract to the Limerick firm, the chairman, Mr B. Laffan, remarking that where the difference in amount was so small there was no great financial loss in the matter. (Report in our next)

ARMS FOR IRELAND.

German Port Discovery.

Berlin, Wednesday.—With reference to Mr Lloyd's George's statement in the House of Commons on Monday night that some of the evidence the Government had received that preparations were being made for landing arms in Ireland was attributed to the German Government, it is learned in official German circles that the British Prime Minister was probably referring to an incident that occurred at Hamburg on October 8th. During the inspection of a fishing vessel on that day some munitions and arms were discovered, which were confiscated under German law. The investigation showed these munitions and arms were destined for Ireland. It is not known here how the British Government got its information about the incident.—Reuter.

DEATH OF MR JOHN O'BRIEN (LATE FOREMAN, MESSRS. W. J. SHAW AND SONS, LIMERICK).

Numerous friends in city and county have heard with very sincere regret of the death of Mr John O'Brien, who passed away in the prime of life on Tuesday last, after a short illness (the result of an accident), at his residence, 2 Roxboro' Villas. The deceased, who held the position of foreman in Messrs W J Shaw and Sons's bacon-curing establishment for many years, was esteemed by all who knew him, and by the firm for whom he laboured so zealously his loss will be keenly felt. This was fully testified by the principals, who showed how much he was appreciated by them, the following notice appearing on the gates on Wednesday evening: "Owing to the death of Mr John O'Brien, late foreman, these works will be closed on Thursday, November 2nd."

The remains were removed to St John's Cathedral on Wednesday at 8 p.m., and the funeral, which was attended by hundreds of the citizens, was ample evidence of sympathy and respect. The funeral started from the Cathedral at 3 p.m. on Thursday for the family burial-place at Mount St Laurence Cemetery.

The chief mourners were—The widow of the deceased, Mrs M O'Brien; Ellen, Annie, and Madge, daughters; Francis, Patrick, John, Christopher, Joseph, Gerard, Laurence, James, sons; Frank Corr, brother of Mrs O'Brien; Joseph Corr, Michael Corr, William Corr, Frank Connolly, Joe Clancy, Daniel Clancy, nephews; John O'Dwyer, Michael Fahy, J Clancy, J Russell, E O'Dowd, relatives.

Messrs W J Shaw and Sons were represented by Mr Malcolm Shaw and Captain Eric Shaw. The Office Staff—Messrs B Gubbins, Manager; W O'Connor, Private Secretary; J H Hollowell, A Fitt, Secretary; J Kennedy, Cashier; W Levers, B McGann, A Prosser, M Gubbins, A Flynn, P Crowe, P McDonough, W Angley, T O'Shea, T Locke, J Longbridge, M Quilligan, G Pickford, E J Kearney, L Leonard, and all the employes from the various departments; W J Fitzgerald, bacon merchant; Patrick Barry, wool merchant; Thomas Leonard, Agent; Patrick O'Flaherty, M Horan, etc, were amongst those also present.

Wreaths were sent by the following:—"A last fond token, from your devoted wife and loving children"; "With kindest recollections and deepest sympathy, from Sir Alec and Lady Shaw"; "With deepest sympathy, from Mr and Mrs Malcolm Shaw and Master Peter Shaw"; "With deepest sympathy, from Captain and Mrs Eric Shaw"; "With heartfelt sympathy, from his loving sisters, Annie, Bridgie, and family"; "From the Office Staff, with deepest sympathy"; "With deepest sympathy, from the Engineering Department of Messrs W J Shaw and Sons"; "A token of sincere regret, from the Parkbutchers of Messrs Shaw and Sons"; "With deepest sympathy, from the Cannery, Sausage and Pudding Departments, R.I.P."; "With deepest sympathy, from the Store Girls' Department, R.I.P."

Rev Fr Carroll, C.C., and Rev Fr Rice, C.C., St John's Cathedral, officiated at the graveside. Mrs O'Brien and family desire to express thanks to all those who sent wreaths, carriages, and expressions of sympathy in their sad bereavement. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Messrs John Griffin and Sons, Gerald Griffin-street.

DUBLIN CATTLE MARKET REPORT.

Thursday, 3rd November.

Messrs. Ganly, Sons & Co. report:—Numbers in market—Beasts, 6,607; decrease, 34. Sheep, 8,635; increase, 321. Numbers on offer were practically unchanged, but the proportion of finished beasts was smaller. Trade slow for all classes of cattle, and quotations one to two shillings per cwt lower. Top quality bullocks brought from 52s to 56s per cwt, with occasionally up to 60s per cwt for choice Angus crosses. Secondary sorts from 53s to 50s per cwt; middling and inferior proportionately lower and a clearance difficult to effect. In the sheep department trade was also slow and hesitating, but values generally were unchanged.
