CAPTAIN RIGHT.
 Glantane Nov. 3, 1786.

At Ballymoney, where the haggard of corn was burned, as mentioned in our last, they also fired a rick of hay, and threw into the flames, the Ploughs, Harrows, and every other implement of Husbandry the man was possessed of. Last week, as two women in Covendale, were drying powder for these insatuated wretches in a pot which hung over the fire, one of them blowing under the pot, drove a spark of fire into the powder which immediately blew up, unroofed the house, and burned the women in a shocking manner; they were immediately taken to the South Infirmary. One of them since died, and the other we are informed is likely to recover.

We are happy to find that the Gentlemen of the County and City, have at length resolved on a spirited exertion, for suppressing the present outrages of the White Boys, and for this purpose, requisitions to the High Sheriffs of the County and City, are now in the Merchant's Coffee-House, for the signature of such gentlemen as chuse to come forward to necessary a business.

On Friday morning last, Mr. Jack, Under-Sheriff of this County, with a Troop of the Light Dragoons, escorted the noted Dr. McCrohan, and three others from Mallow, where the three others on that day whipped through that town, in Saturday Mr. Jack, with a Troop of Light Dragoons, took the Dr. to Kanch where he was publicly whipped. It was confidently reported on that day, that a was intended, but the Doctor's friends had any) were intimidated, by the activity of the Light Horse and Infantry Company of the 26th Foot, and there. The prisoners were brought to the County Jail yesterday, by the Sheriff and the Troop of the 13th Dr. McCrohan is to be whipped Saturday in December at Newmarket on the first Saturday in January

Friday last, Gibbs Ross, Esq; Rann-County, having received information of those numerous meetings of those notorious White Boys, was to be at 6 o'clock that night, at the Cross, Court, on the Dublin Road, in the house of Henry Mannix, Esq; to burn his haggard, and at half past nine o'clock, off a Serjeant and twelve men to meet him near said Cross, himself with the Adjutant and of the 13th Light Dragoons to said place, when after several shouts were heard with the Cavalry advanced stone, where he heard the and in a short time a party of me down the hill shouting, ed by the party, and the sing the Cavalry to be a the regulations of the Right Boys respecting the dues of the R. C. Clergy. Friday night last, between two and three hundred people surrounded the house of one Maurice Moore, a dairyman at Killicle in this County, and swore him not to send in future his milk to sell to Tralee, but dispose of it, at a reasonable price, amongst the poor of his neighbourhood.

LIMERICK.

The police of Dublin is so severe, and the laws so well executed, that all the robbers and petty thieves have fled from thence, and dispersed themselves through the kingdom; we are credibly informed that several of them came to this city and neighbourhood; and as the inhabitants from some unaccountable accident, have not yet established a set of watchmen; we think it our duty strongly to caution them against the burglaries, felonies, robberies and murders, that may be attempted, and put in execution this approaching winter.

Married. A few days ago, in Dublin, Mr. Jacob Geoghegan, of Francis-street, Silk-manufacturer, to the very amiable and accomplished Miss Sarah Moore, daughter of Mr. George Moore, of this city, merchant.

Died. Yesterday morning, Mrs. Roche, wife of Stephen Roche, John, Esq. She was more conspicuous for her virtues, than for her family, which is very ancient and respectable, being a direct branch of the O'Briens, Kings of North Munster. She left a numerous family, to whom she was a most affectionate parent, and indigent, who always found her ready to relieve their distress, and her memory must be dear to all those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.
