

A RECORD price of £5,000 an acre has been paid for a site in the Ennis Road area. It is the select Strand House site near the Intercontinental Hotel, the four acres of which has been purchased by Mr. Sean Hanley, B.E., for £20,000.

Mr. Hanley has already purchased some 25 acres of land during the past four years at an approximate cost of £45,000.

The present site which was one time selected for the building of a new City Hall, is regarded as one of the most select in Limerick.

The Strand House was formerly the residence of the late Stephen O'Mara.

Interviewed by a "Limerick Leader" reporter today, Mr. Hanley stated that he had not yet completed his plans for the development of the site, but he clearly indicated that it would be used for housing.

"I will give further details in due course as to the number and type of house which the builder will erect on the site," he concluded.

The architects for the houses will be Messrs. Thomas S. McMahon and Co., Limerick.

Local owner to be show judge

Inquest on carpenter in Cement Ltd.

THE story of how 53-year-old Limerick carpenter, Mr. Thomas Lynch, Killonan, Ballysimon Road, lost his life when he fell 26 feet to the ground while working on a building construction at his place of employment—Cement Ltd., Castlemungret, Co. Limerick, on August 12, was told at an inquest held by the Coroner for East Limerick, Dr. J. P. Clery, in the Limerick Regional Hospital, yesterday.

A verdict in accordance with the medical evidence given by Dr. M. J. G. Furnell, Pathologist at the Regional Hospital, that death was due to brain damage and multiple fractures of the skull as a result of a fall, was returned at the inquest conducted by Supt. T. Griffin, Adare.

John Gavin, Carrig West, Clarina, Co. Limerick, a scaffolder employed at Cement Ltd., stated in evidence that after returning from his lunch to the Mill House shortly after 1 p.m. on August 12, he heard a faint noise of planks falling as he descended the stairs of the Mill House. He looked down to the ground and saw two wooden planks under the partially con-
