RTC builds 300-seat theatre

By DYMPHNA
BRACKEN

The application will be considered at the meeting of City Council, this evening.

THE Regional Technical College, Moylish, plan an extension to the college including a 300 seat auditorium.

The college authorities have applied for planning permission to the Corporation to complete phases two and three of their extension to the school of engineering.

The plans include an educational and administrative building, a 300 seat auditorium, and a restaurant.

It is also planned to complete the library extension and associated landscaping and site development works.

Outline permission is sought for trades workshop, materials laboratory, maintenance workshop and alteration to existing school building elevation.
