MISSING POUND Charge Of Stealing

KILFINANE COURT CASE

MARY RIORDAN, of Thomastown, Kilfinane, had just sold eggs for £1.04. 9d. to a traveller who stopped near her home, when Conor Coughlan, 34, of Thomastown, St. Mallo, came along in his lorry.

SAW HIM PICK UP GREEN PAPER

The girl told Justice Conner that she saw the defendant pick up a green paper off the road near where they were talking. Soon afterwards she missed the pound, and immediately suspected Coughlan.

DEPENDANT'S DENIAL

Coughlan, in evidence, strongly denied that he'd stolen the £1. He said that he had been jokingly asked by the girl for money and she had given him an egg, which he had swallowed raw.

DR. R. DWYER JOYCE'S BRILLIANT CAREER

(By W. B. DOYLE)

AMONG the doctors of Irish birth occasion required. In after life he often astonished those who were gathered in his social circle with the extent of the information he possessed. He was a brilliant conversationalist and raconteur, never at a loss for a witty repartee to one of his many-sided characters.

THE stream of emigration caused

By the time that Dr. Joyce left for Boston, which for years previous was the destination of many Irish families, his name was known to many of them through his writings in national journals.

Things That Matter

THE one thing practically certain about Partition is that it will end some time. When or how one can say with any degree of confident assurance. The thing itself is so patently infamous and indefensible that no one of normal mind and judgment could expect it to continue forever.
