THE SPRING ASSIZES

For many years now Ireland has been enjoying the proud and enviable reputation of being more free from crime than any other country on the face of the globe. So far from she showing any signs of losing her lead in that respect evidences are daily accumulating that she still continues to add to her good name for peace, order and immunity from those victous and unrestrained excesses that merit the rigarous punishment of the law. The presen Spring Assizes, the circuits of which went out on Wednesday, afford undenlable and rather striking proof of the gratifying fact that the position of the judges has become av nearly a sinecure as it could humanly be expected to be. At the opening of the Westmesth Assizes the Right Hon Mr Justice R ss was able to tell the Grand Jury that the county was, from the point of view of the calendar and the police reports, very satisfactory. In fact, the hardest thing he had to say was that "the formed that; as usual, the condition of the county was most satisfactory. His Lorship Matiness Thursdays and Satudrays some boycotting existed in one corner of one estate. At Wicklow there was only one small case, and Mr Justice Grason said he was inadded that there was a small diminution in the amount of drink convictions, which was a matter for congratulation. At the County Moath Assizes, opened on Wednesday at Trim, there was not a single case to go before the Grand Jury. Mr Justice Donn had a similar pleasing experience on yesterday at the Long ford Assizes, at which he was presented with white gloves, there being no criminal business to be disposed of. Opening the Louth Assizes at Dundalk, Mr Justice Pin said there were only two bills to go beforethe Grand Jury, and he took occasion to say that the county was in such a peaceable condition that they had reason to be proud of it There were only two cases to be dealt with at the Wexford Assizes, and Mr Justice MAI DEN had no hesitation in offering his congratulations on such a satisfactory condition of one of the most fascineting of the Recitals yet Mr Michael Beary :- "That we, the parishthings as that fact revesled. The Lord Chief given in the Hall, and should draw a very Justice told the King's County Grand Jury that there were only three trifling cases to go before them, and referring to the general condition of the county he said that it was ' perfectly peaceable,' adding that there was also a considerable decrease in the number of offences generally. Owing mainly to the circumstances of the land trouble to that county, Clare was for a considerable number of convictions for drunkenness and for minor Ireland Hurling Club, at meeting assembled, pathy on the death of his uncle." The niceting then adjourned as a mark of respect withou years a very disturbed centre, being frequent! referred to in judges charges as a "black The National Organisation spot "on the face of the country. Happily such a state of things no longer exists, a decided and most satisfactory change for the better having set in. At the opening of the Assizes at Emis on Wednesday Lord Justice

The cases to gobefore the Grand Jury were neither great in number nor very serious in character, and his Lordship was able to point out from the figures before him that there was certainly a turn for the better in what was once storm centre with, anything bu an enviable reputation. The Limerick Assizes will open on Monday next and, as will seen from the calendar, which we publish in another column, there are but three . cases

Ronan was happy to be able to say that there from the county and one from the city. It will thus be observed that the Assizes now in progress show clearly that crimes are few in all parts of the country and that their number still con tinues to steadily decrease.

HIGH SHERIFF INSTALLED At the meeting of the Limerick Corporation last night, the Mayor (Councillor S B Qpin) presiding, Councillor T S Lawler was formally installed into the office of High Sheriff of the oity for the year to end on 23rd February next. This is the second occasion on which St Patricks had to come to the rescue of Young Irelands, and hence one would be inclined to ask is the latter team defunct i Time there was when Young Itelands were the best organised team in the city. The same may be said of it again if the members only display a little more energy.

Cork v. Tipperary

Every portion of the Cork Athietic Grounds should be filled to its utmost espacity on next Sunday, when a very important and what promises to be a thrilling challenge hurling contest will take place. Teams representing Cork and Tipperary will be engaged. and considering the "Mealry that has existed between these counties for some time past a great game should be witnessed. Tipperary will be represented by the famous Toomevara team; while a fifteen selected by the popular Redmond Club will do duty for Cork. A special train will be run from Limerick.

Hurling at Mungret

On Sunday last, at the Mungret College Athletic grounds, an interesting hurling contest was brought off, the contending teams being Boher and the College team. The latter team played a clever game, but had to go down before their more experienced opponents. Mr I T Halvey refereed.

A letter was read from the Local Government Board enclosing copies of the order made by the Board in the matter of the surcharges of £3 12s and £13 13s 7d made by the auditor at his audit of the accounts of the Board of Guardians for the half-years ended the 31st March and 30th September, 1915, and also stating that they had under consideration the appeals from the persons surcharged. With regard to the surcharges of £13 13s 7d on foot of a payment made mainly in respect of the enhanced cost of sugar and butter, they (the Local Government Board) regretted to observe that the claim in connection with each of these articles was not supported by a proper voucher. Mr D Griffin, B O. drew attention to the se ious curtailment of the Postal services about to be carried out in the city, which he stated would reduce Limerick to the status of a small town or village. It would also affect the labour market most seriously, because the delay in the eccipt of order and the consequent delay in the delivery of goods would injure the trade of Limerick, and tend to cause very serious unemployment among the workingmen. No matter what way one looked at the subject t meant a very serious blow to the city. He proposed the following resolution-'That the Limerick United Trades and Labour Conneil protests against the action of the Post master General in the very serious curtailment in the postal services of Limerick, both as to the closing of the G P O and curtailment of the deliveries is the city, as it will create a most acute labour problem, consequent on the delay which orders will receive, besides the lume diate effect of having all the temporary staff thrown out of employment, and the transference of some of the permanent staff to other spheres on account of the decrease in work We call on our local M P's and the Irish and Labour Parties to prevent such drastic disarrangements of the business of Limerick.

Mr R P O'Connor, B C, said this was a most mportant resolution and affected Limerick nost stringely. He hoped that every public body in Limerick would take immediate action and prevent, if possible, such a terrible wrong being done to an important place like Limerick, where there was such a large cross-Channel trade in perishable goods, bacon, butter, eggs, etc, and where everthing depended on quick despatch and where it is most important that there would be no delay to receipt of order. A Correspondent's Views

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK LEADER. DEAR SIR-I notice from Press reports that the Limerick County Council are again this year engaged in the disagreeable task of comsystem has been revolutionised since then, and that in this progressive age we are supposed to keep in touch with all modern theories; but of how far these theories will have the desired effect I desire to offer a simple illustration. In large portions of the roads where for years no trees or bushes either preudiced or obstructed the roads they were even in a worse condition than where the plantations were full grown. Under the existing cirtive duty of the ratepayers and travelling public to take united action on the matter and prevent the wanton and unnecessary destruction of those fine plantations which must certainly be regarded as a national asset. What is more fair to the eye or more beneficial to mankind in the swelter ing summer season or in the rigours of the winter's blast than those beautiful plantations

Apart altogether from the accommadation and shelter afforded to cattle, elc, what a solace. and comfort they would offer to the poor illfated "knights of the road" in their perigrinations through their world of adversity and to rest their wears limbs beneath the shady bowers Therefore, I appeal to every channel of public opinion to cry out against this Cromwellian method of destruction of our nation's most valuable asset, and meautime, perhaps, i would be as well to iemind the members of our County Parliament that candidates will be peminated in every county division at the next leotion pledged to resist this high-handed in fringement of the people's rights.-Yours

SPEECH RETURNS. TO WOUNDED SOLDIER

Remarkable Case in Tipperary

A remarkable instance of how a soldier suddenly recovered the use of his speech has just occurred at the Tipperary Depos. Wounded in the heal by a bullet at the Dardanelles Lance-Corporal Crossett, a native of Cooks Experience town, County Tyrone, was sent back to Netley Hospital. Very shortly after his arrival at Netler he completely lost his speech. After several months he was sent to Tipperary, still dumb. Here one of the masseuses put him through a course of lip-reading. One morning, Listowel, has had a remarkable experience on getting out of bed, Crossett, to his unbounded joy and amazement, found that his speech ftrench in Flanders, and when dug out he had returned. His first use of it was interesting and characteristic. Skipping in estasies going treatment at Manor Hospital, Fol. about the floor, he started singing " It's a Long | stone. Way to Tipperary." The other men in the room -amongst them Sergeaut Maguire, who was in Crossett's company when he was wounded at the Dardsnelles was astonished to see that -amongst them Sergeaut Maguire, who was in the Dardanelles-was astonished to see that refrain, had awakened them out of their slumhers was none other than their comrade, who since he came amongst them they had known as a dummy. A burst of cheers and laughter greeted the perfermer, who continued his cccentric evolutions for some little time, to.

This, needless to say, is Clarendo, for Clarendo possesses those vital elements which keep the horse fit, the cow prolific in milk, the pigs plump, and the fowl profitable. Clarendo can be procured every-accompanied by Mr West of the Estates Commission, visited Pligrim Hill, some miles from Listowel, and terminated a long-standing and-bitter agitation in which a large number of cotflers were concerned. At the time of the sale of Lord Listowel's estate in 1906 the small holders put up a strenuous fight for the enlargement of their holdings, but it was only last week the unhappy business was satisfactorlly arranged through the unceasing and indefatigable efforts of the esteemed Parliamentary representative of North Kerry.

THE IRISH ROSARY

high standard of excellence. There is a variety of other matter, humarous as well as serious, comprising fiction and general articles. The Topical section is brilliant and up-to-date, as it always is; and the Review department gives a discriminating account of three much talked of books. A unique feature of this issue is the reproduction of a letter of Papal recommendation for The Irish Rosary. This mark of high approval is a compliment to Irish Catholic journalism. We urge our readers to befriend this leading mouthly, and so reap for themselves the benefit of the Apostolic blessing.

The March number of The Irish Rossey is ake exceptionally interesting one. A particulary striking item is the hiegraphical sketch of Catherine Hayes, the famous Limerick prima donus, and another is the elever romance. "Passed by the Censor." But though these may be singled out as specially good, it must not be assumed that there is nothing else of a high standard of excellence. There is a variety of other matter, humarous as well as serious.
