Food in Maternity hospital rated ‘inedible’ in online poll

BY JOHN HOGAN

This food served up in the Mid-Western Regional Maternity Hospital has been described as ‘inedible’ in an online survey which rated the Ennis Road hospital’s meals as the worst in Ireland.

The Rote My Hospital feature on Independent.ie asks patients and relatives to rate hospitals under various headings on a scale of one, which is ‘poor’, to five, which is ‘excellent’.

Under the food heading, 118 hospitals achieved an average score of greater than or equal to three out of five. Limerick, under the ‘real hospital’ section, was the lowest out of the 29 hospitals surveyed with only 2.50 out of five, or 25 per cent.

The hospital awarded the lowest marks for food by patient and relatives in St Luke’s Cancer Hospital.

Last night, Ms Gibbons said that she was not aware of any complaints about the food in the maternity hospital.

"Obviously coming last out of all of the hospitals was distressing for the Mid-Western Regional Maternity Hospital, but another survey, which was less critical, has been published," said Ms Gibbons.

"We were surprised to find that the survey asked people to rate the food on the basis of our experience in the past year or so, and that our experience is generally positive. It is important to note that the survey was not conducted in isolation, but rather as part of a larger study.
