DUKE OF ABBEY (Ballyglass Lundy-Easter Cathy), owned by Gerry O'Sullivan, Abbeyfeale, won the Hartly Cup in power driving style at Abbeydorney last weekend.

In the final he beat Brian O'Brien's Musical Mendy easily enough. Opening at 16/1 and backed to 12/1 before coursing this 110 pounder never looked in doubt after Woodies Lundy came off lame after the first round. Duke of Abbey's price shortened after a kill to 5/4 against. However, in the bottom half, Special Effects, seemed to be going well and Musical Mendy caused the upset here in the semi-final.

In the other semi-final, Michael Burke's Mariners Man (Best Man-Mariners Dream), came very wide from slips and left him with too much to do to be ever on terms with Duke of Abbey.

In the final, Duke of Abbey was held for a while but stretched out comfortably up field to win by 3 clear lengths.

In the Derby Trial Stake Gerry O'Hanlon's Raheela Rusty (Duffers Ranger-Rahilla Majestic) held his clock right through this meeting, 810, 785, 784, 783 and impressed Clonmel observers by his speed from slips. However, I would like to see him on a longer stretch as W. O'Leary's Snipefield Lap (Ballyglass Lundy-Best Lap) was closing on Raheela in the final. The Oaks ticket went to John Prenderville's bitch Swanky Gina (Best Man-Swanky Lassie). This bitch stamped her authority on this ticket very early on and I would certainly give her a better than average chance when February comes around.

Another winner for the Abbeyfeale syndicate was Paddy McCarthy's Enola Pako (Enola Gay-Oughtier Point), a very popular winner indeed. Of all the dogs that ran in Abbeydorney this dog impressed me most and most surely pickup a trial stake sooner or later.

The weather conditions that prevailed over the weekend were not the best for coursing and credit must be given to the Abbeydorney committee for getting through their meeting.

THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

RAZMATAZ

● Razmataz has become one of Limerick's most sought after bands. Formed last June, they quickly gained a large following in Kilkee, where they played each weekend in the West Cliff Bar.
 ● Now Razmataz have brought their act to town, and play every Tuesday night in the Basement Night Club and Bar in the Glentworth Hotel.
 ● Firm believers in giving value for money, they play each Tuesday from 9 p.m. to 11.30 p.m., then the Basement Night Club takes over until 1.30 a.m.

 ● This can be yours for only £1.50 — if you arrive at the box office before 10.30 — after that the full disco price operates.
 ● There are full bar facilities at the club and patrons are advised to come early to avoid disappointment.

Glin Ballroom

● Just as we go to press I hear that Glin Ballroom will re-open on Saturday, October 29.
 ● Specially engaged for this long-awaited night is Shaun O'Dowd and Dingaling.
 ● A disco spectacular will be part of the night's entertainment.
 ● More news next week.

River Room

● There will be disco dancing this Friday in the River Room Motel in Newcastle West.

● This Sunday its a return to dancing to LIVE music with a special engagement of the television and recording stars, LUCKY NUMBERS.

Farewells

● At the age of 80, Ralph Richardson, a star of the British cinema and theatre throughout my lifetime. His 50-odd pictures, ranging from "Bulldog Drummond" in the early '30s to the recently shown premiere of "Witness for the Prosecution," made him one of the best loved actors of this century.
 ● At the age of 83, Pat O'Brien, star of dozens of those wonderful Warner Brothers movies of the '30s and '40s, in which he was seen with his life-long pal, James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart and others. Incidentally, O'Brien and Cagney made a film two years ago called "Ragtime." It has been seen in Dublin, but for some reason has disappeared. I am sure that there are many who would dearly love to see Pat in what is his final motion picture.
