expense in Vize's Fields, and there was, he understood, no misance arising from the Model School, and he would recommend Mr. Corbett to visit all these places, and report on them, for the sewerage would have to be constructed, no matter what the cost, and that at the Corporate expense.

Mr. Corbett explained that with regard to the sewer passing through Military Walk, if it were continued it would have to be re-constructed, and the O'Connell Monument in the Crescent taken down and put up again (laughter). The sewer running through Frederick-street would enable light branch sewers to a rederick-street would enable light oranch sewers to be run into it from the Military walk if necessary at an additional expense of about £2000.

Mr. Spaight thought they might adopt the two suggestions, by the Town Clerk writing to the Lord Lieutenant to know how far Government would contribute to a system of sewerage that would drain the Model School and the Provost Prison; and for the committee to go with Mr. Corbett, confer with him about those other sewers, and let the cheapest and best system be adopted; for a system of sewerage which would carry out what was required, and yet be which would carry out what was required, and yet be borne out partly with the Government assistance it would be best plan to adopt, as it would relieve the rate-payers considerably. He proposed that the question embracing the suggestion which he had thrown out be adopted, which was agreed to.

A letter was read from Lord Howth, thanking the Corporation for their letter to him on the occasion of the appointment of the Lord Mayor as D.L. for the city of Dublin. The letter stated that it was a great source of satisfaction to receive the thanks of so distinguished a body as the ancient Corporation of Lime-

The letter was ordered to be inserted on the minutes:

Another letter was read from the Hon. Leopold G. Dillon, acknowledging, on the part of the Lord Lieutenant, the loyal address of the Council on the occasion of the suppression of the late Fenian disturbances, and that "it affords his Excellency great satisfaction to know that the influence of the authorities of Limerick has been employed in the cause of order; and his Excellency agrees with the Council in the opinion that the feeling of discontent and disloyalty attendant on the distubances was not generally participated in by the people, but was looked upon by them as injurious and dangerous to the welfare of the country. The attention of the Government will be unceasingly directed to the maintenance of public peace, and the extension of that security to life and property without which it would be vain to look for improvement in the social condition and prosperity of Ireland."

The letter was ordered to be inserted on the minutes.

The Town Clerk next read a letter from Mr. Roche, Secretary to the Harbour Board, accompanying the report of the committee of that body, agreed to at yesterday's meeting.

A lengthened discussion ensued, for a report of which we are unable to find room this post, but it ended in a resolution being adopted, on the motion of Alderman Carte, seconded by Mr. O'Callaghan, directing the Town Clerk to send forward the report to his Worship the Mayor, calling his attention to its contents, and requesting him to use all his influence with the Board of Trade and the Treasury to have a good Harbour Bill for Limerick passed this session.

The Council adjourned at five o'clock

Eliza Culhane, Matron, v. Mary Moore.

It appears a partition of this building is set apart for a Reformatory, when Mary Moore and a few others of her class are located, and on a late occasion having overstepped the boundary she was admonished by the Matron when she flew into a violent passion, threatened, abused, and soforth.

This was proved by a penitent, who sojourns in the same quarters, and Mary, when asked had she any questions to put to the witness, said she would not demean herself by questioning a character of her It was true her temper got the upper hand of her when Miss Culhane gave her the proud look and ordered her scornfully out of the day yard, and banged the door on her, which Miss Culhane need not. Maybe if "she looked over her own shoulder, and which I am sorry for saying anything unpolite to her and always was her friend and well-wisher in the house, &c."

The Chaplain, Father Gleeson, here interposed and said something favourable of the poor girl whilst under his care, whereupon she burst into tears with a promise of amendment, and the Bench discharged her with a caution.

Before the Court rose the Magistrates agreed to move the Grand Jury through the next Road Sessions of Shanid, for some better accommodation in this Petty Session house, which Mr. Treston said was the most limited he ever sat in.

Lieutenant G. E. Earle, 73rd Foot, has been appointed by Sir John Pakington to the Paymaster-ship of the 86th Regiment, vice Paymaster Vardon, who has resigned.

It has been decided at the War Office that military medical officers are not to be called upon to examine volunteers for the Militia. In the absence of Militia surgeons, private practitioners are to be engaged for the duty.

Barrack accommodation was taken over at Aldershot on the 26th inst. for the 1st and 2nd Royal Surrey Militia. These corps will arrive at the camp on the 1st prox, and will be attached to the 1st, Major Renny's brigade. The Hants, Berks, and Oxfordshire Regiments are also under orders for Aldershot on the same date. The former will join the 1st Brigade, and the latter will be quartered in the North Camp, and attached to Sir Alfred Horsford's brigade.

In future the appointment of inspecting field officer of a recruiting district will be considered as coming under article 106 of the Royal Warrant of February, 1866, and will be tenable for five years only. Promotion to the rank of major-general will, of course, still render the appointment vacant as at present.
