

CO. LIMERICK PASTOR.

Death of Rev. T. Nolan, of Kildeely.

Monsignor's Brother.

The death occurred at the Parochial House on Saturday night of the Rev. Thomas Nolan, P.P., Kildeely, County Limerick.

Born at Killenaule, County Tipperary, the late Father Nolan was educated at Thurles College, where he was ordained in 1897. After his ordination, he went on the English Mission, was recalled after about 12 years, and was Secretary to Most Rev. Dr. Fennelly, Archbishop of Cashel, for two years.

After filling curacies at Boherlahan and Kildeely, he was, in 1934, appointed Parish Priest of Kildeely, and was responsible for clearing a parochial debt of £1,200 in that parish. During the troubled period, Father Nolan ministered to wounded men, following the Drumkeen Ambush.

Deceased was brother of Right Rev. Monsignor Nolan, P.P., V.G., Tipperary.

At the removal of the remains to Kildeely Church the large cortege of clergy and laity testified to the deep sense of sorrow which his death evoked.

LIMERICK MAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral took place in Chicago of Mr P. P. O'Keeffe, M.A., Instructor in English and Latin in Lane Technical High School, Chicago, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Keeffe, Corner House, Kilmfinane, Co. Limerick. Mr. O'Keeffe, who was aged 41, visited his home last year, and had arranged to pay a visit next month.

A split second saved the lives of two Ballina sisters on Sunday, when the 20 feet high bank of a sandpit in which they were sitting collapsed. They es-said she did not ask him for any presents. She gave £7 to plaintiff for yearlings.

Justice—Did you make him any money presents?—No.

Any gifts of any kind?—No.

Mr. Timoney—Is there any other man who over a period of three years gave you gloves?—Yes, there are others.

How many others?—A few friends.

DISMISSED.

Justice—It does seem a bit strange if you had no intention towards this man you took those gifts from him, doesn't it?

The witness said that plaintiff thrust the presents on her, and she did not want them.

The Justice said that the claim brought in consideration of a promise of marriage failed. It did seem a little strange that the defendant took the gifts if she had no intention of marrying him; but it was not sufficient to sustain the alleged promise of marriage. "I believe this man was thrusting himself on the lady; her evidence is quite clear. I cannot say the same of his evidence; it was vague and evasive, and the whole examination by Mr. Darcy seemed to bring out the idea that he was, in fact, hoping to marry into the farm." The Justice added that plaintiff was taking a chance. There was no case in law, and the case would be dismissed.

LATE MR. D. O'GRADY.

We regret to announce that Mr. Daniel O'Grady died, at his residence, 2 St. Alphonsus Terrace, Limerick, yesterday morning. He had reached an advanced age, and his illness was of a brief duration. Mr. O'Grady was associated with the mercantile life of Limerick for half a century as buyer of the lace department of Messrs. Cannock and Co., Ltd. Possessed of sound business methods and an engaging manner, he enjoyed the full confidence of the firm and affection of the staff, especially of his assistants. He was a very kindly, charitable man, who had the goodwill of many friends, who extend sincere sympathy to his children in their loss.

The funeral took place from St. Michael's Church after Requiem Mass at half-past ten this morning for Mount
