> Sisters mark 150th year in Limerick

By PADDY MORONEY

A BRITISH peer has thanked the FCJ sisters at Laurel Hill for giving her the love of learning and the knowledge of how to learn.

Limerickwoman, Baroness Detta O Cathain was speaking at the 150th anniversary celebrations marking the sisters' coming to Limerick.

Altogether, over 400 past pupils came from all over the world to mark the anniversary at Laurel Hill last Sunday.

The past pupils came from the United States and Canada, Britain, the Continent, and Ireland. They had, over the past seven decades, attended the cluster of schools off the North Circular Road which traditionally made up Laurel Hill: the secondary

One of the FCJ community which taught at St Philomena's in the early 1950s, Mother Benedicta, was at the celebrations, last Sunday. She is now based in Dublin.

Among the many who came from outside Ireland was Baroness Detta O Cathain, who completed her

The Sister Provincial of the Irish FCJ, Sr Katherine Mary O'Flynn, who welcomed the former pupils back to their alma mater "to share the joy of the anniversary", told them at the luncheon later that the sisters had come to Limerick specifically to set up a

Fr O'Sullivan, in his homily, said that all of those present - like the pupils, teachers, and religious community - made up the extended FCJ family, noted for its tremendous solidarity

arie Madeleine Victoire de Bengy was born on 21 September, 1781, in a beautiful chateau at Chateauroux, in northern France. When she was ten years old, the French Revolution caused the family to move hastily to the countryside. This meant a complete change of circumstances for the family as poverty and fear became the new order of the day. Her father, Chevalier de Bengy, was thrown into prison, but was eventually released and restored to his family. He gave shelter to the Abbé Claveau, who acted as chaplain in the home and also gave religious instruction to the children. Victoire became friendly Mademoiselle de Rochfort and assisted her in charitable works among the poor and the sick.

When she was eighteen Victoire fell seriously ill but later recovered. As peace and tranquility returned to the life of the community, she began to enjoy herself and, like most other girls of her age, liked to go to dances, parties and the theatre. Her partly-arranged marriage, on 21 August, 1804, to Antoine Joseph de Bonnault d'Houet, former deputy of the nobility in the Etats de Berry, and Knight of St. Louis, was a happy one. However, less than a year later, on 1 July, 1805, he died. A son, Eugene, was born two months after his father's death.

As Victoire d'Houet devoted herself to rearing the child and to works of charity, she found herself gradually drawn to a new mission in her life. The year 1809 saw France at war again, and Spanish prisoners were crowded into the hospitals of Bourges, where they were decimated by typhus fever. Victoire disguised herself as a peasant and, unknown to her family, had herself accepted as a nurse to look after the unfortunate prisoners. Her secret was discovered when she caught the fever herself, and her four year old son was handed over to the care of her sister Angela. Despite the fever's toll, she was fortunate to make a complete recovery.

Four years later, after discussions with her confessor Abbé Gaudin, she entered the next and most decisive stage in her life. She made contact with the Jesuits, who, having just been reestablished by Pope Pius VII, had opened a college at St. Acheul, near Amiens. She placed her son Eugene in this college for his further education.

On 20 March, 1820, after a period of

indecision, Victoire d'Houet founded the Society of the Faithful Companions of Jesus, (F.C.J.), in Amiens, when, with two young girls, she began by teaching seven poor children to read, write, pray and work. She chose this name for her order because she was deeply influenced by Mary Magdalen's devotion to Jesus.

More than three years later, in October, 1823, with six nuns, who set up a second foundation at her birthplace, Chateauroux. Free classes from 7am to 7pm were begun and were well attended.

The new order quickly spread. Early French foundations followed one another in rapid succession; no sooner was one house established than another was opened elsewhere.

In 1826, she went to Rome for an audience with Pope Leo XII to seek his approval of her order, which he duly gave. In October that year, she was elected superior-general of the Society. Four years later, she and one of her companions travelled to London where, with the approval of the vicar apostolic, the Right Rev. J. Bramstone, a large school was handed over to her. Soon after, the Society rented a small house in Hampstead.

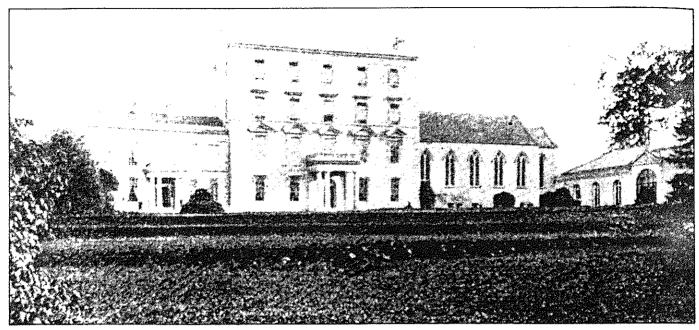

The superior-general then went to Geneva, Switzerland, where she established a poor school, an industrial school and two schools for the children of more affluent parents. King Charles Albert of Savoy (an area in south-east France, bordering on Italy, mainly in the Savoy Alps, then part of the kingdom of Sardina) invited her to open a college at Turin. In 1840, she purchased a prime property in Nice and established a select boarding-school there.

The following year, she returned to London and opened a similar school for Catholic girls in Gumley House, Isleworth - then on the outskirts of the city - in a Georgian mansion, surrounded by picturesque woods.

In 1820, in the shadow of Amiens Cathedral, Madame d'Houet opened her first school for noor children.

Laurel Hill Convent, completed in 1846.

In 1842, the parish priest of Oughterard, Co.Galway, Dr. Kirwan, visited London and was impressed by the nuns and their school. He pointed out that a school at Oughterard would serve the dual purpose of providing an Irish novitiate for the order and a school for local children. Victoire d'Houet readily agreed to bring the order to Ireland. The convent and novitiate at Oughterard were blessed by the Bishop of Galway, assisted by forty of his priests, on 2nd February, 1843.

On 20 March, 1844 Miss Mary Anne Connolly of Limerick, accompanied by her mother and Father William Bourke, (later to be administrator of St. John's Cathedral, Limerick,) presented herself at the novitiate at Oughterard. Fr. Bourke, who had heard much about the F.C.J.s from his friend, Brother Patrick Walsh, superior of the Christian Brothers' Schools, St. Michael's Place, Sexton Street, Limerick, urged Victoire d'Houet who received them herself - to set up a foundation in Limerick. Br. Walsh had already formed a friendship with the superior-general and her community when he was stationed in Wapping, London, some years earlier.

Limerick, at this period, was a place of high unemployment with the conditions of the working classes so extremely abject, that in a petition to parliament in favour of the Dublin and Cashel (Great Southern and Western) Railway, the Corporation claimed that there was more wretchedness among the poor of Limerick than among those of any other town of equal population in Ireland; that this arose from want of regular employment and that there were 1215 tradesmen (only 407 in regular employment) and 5000 labourers, equally destitute.

On the other hand, despite this high unemployment, there was considerable building activity in the city, and the new Potato Market of the Long Dock, next to Matthew Bridge, had just been constructed at a cost of £1,200. The building of Newtown Pery was continuing at a brisk rate. The Pery Square housing development was also being built as was St. Michael's Church, on the southern end of the Square. St. John's Church in John's Square was being re-constructed. Negotiations were in progress for the purchase of the Commercial Buildings, Rutland Street, by the Corporation for use as a Town Hall.

This, then, was part of the social and economic background of the Limerick to which Victoire d'Houet and her companion, Mère Julie Guillemet, came on 5 September, 1844. Having alighted from one of Bianconi's coaches, they were met at the Royal George Hotel, George's (now O'Connell) Street, by Br. Walsh and

Fr. Bourke. The four walked the short distance to 3 Patrick Street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly, whose daughter, Mary Anne, had become an F.C.J. novice in Oughterard.

Fr. Bourke and Br. Walsh had, some time previously, spoken to the Bishop of Limerick, Dr. John Ryan, but his attitude was one of indifference to the nuns. They forewarned Victoire d'Houet of his attitude, and the next day they all set off for Kilkee, Co. Clare, to meet the bishop who was on holiday there. Contrary to expectations, Dr. Ryan gave the Society his approval, and insisted that the two nuns remain on in his Kilkee house for the rest of that day. They left on the following morning, after having agreed that they 'should open a Boarding and Day School in Limerick, in view of providing for the needs of the children of well-to-do parents'. (The poor of the city were already being catered for by the Sisters of Mercy and the Presentation Nuns.)

Victoire d'Houet and her companion, Mère Julie Guillmet, remained as guests for 10 weeks of the Connolly family, in whose home the bishop said Mass on many mornings during this time.

While still negotiating the purchase of the extensive property known as Ashbourne, the order started its community life on 1 November, 1844 at 9, Victoria Terrace, at the northern end of the South Circular Road, near the Ashbourne property. Fr. Theobold Matthew was to visit them there on one occasion.

A few months later on 26 January, 1845, the nuns moved a short distance to a large house in Richmond Place, and there a day-school was opened with thirty-three pupils. It then transpired that they had not been successful in their negotiations for the purchase of Ashbourne and, subsequently, through the efforts of Br. Walsh, Fr. Bourke and other friends, the quest for a suitable property ended in the purchase of Laurel Hill from the Limerick Quaker family of Newsome. There, on the 26 June, 1845, the boarding school opened with eleven pupils. These pupils were given 18 days' holiday, at the beginning of August, to enable the nuns to make their annual retreat under the direction of Dean Cussen, vicar-general of the diocese. The Dean, a fluent French speaker, gave the exercise of the retreat alternately in French and in English. He served as spiritual director to the Laurel Hill community during those early years.

In October, 1845, the large central building, sixty feet high and fifty-four feet in length, was begun under the personal supervision of Victoire d'Houet, and the foundation stone was solemnly blessed by Dr. Ryan on 12 November. The building was completed in the autumn of 1846, just a year later, and opened to the public, who came from all parts to admire it, and to gaze on the beautiful, panoramic view of the River Shannon and the Clare Hills, from the fourth storey windows.

Under the foundation stone was placed a parchment on which was written the names of all the members of the community, and also medals and illustrations. There had been, fortunately, only one accident during the construction work, and the injured man was given a rosary beads by the nuns, who also sent him his wages each week until he recovered.

During the terrible Famine of 1847, the nuns tended to the hunger-stricken people who came to their convent door.

Some years later, in 1856, their spiritual director, Dean Robert Cussen brought the Society to Bruff, Co. Limerick, to look after the schools in his parish. He had first met Victoire d'Houet in Paris, where he had been pursuing his ecclesiastical studies. He could offer no school or convent, but only the shelter of his mother's home. Victoire d'Houet gladly accepted this offer, and her nuns took residence with Mrs. Cussen in Crawford's Lane.

St. Mary's boarding-school opened with a nucleus of twenty-five pupils. Growing numbers made it imperative to move into the corner house, (later known as 'The Medical Hall'). Soon the convent and schools, both primary and secondary, were begun. The site chosen was just below the town on the left bank of the Morning Star River. Today this fine fourstoreyed building, which commands a view of the Galtee Mountains on the east, and the Ballyhouragh Hills on the south, is a landmark on the road to Kilmallock. Against a background of tall elm trees, lawns and flower-gardens, it forms a pleasant setting for a centre of education. This was the last foundation made during the life time of the foundress of the order.

On Tuesday, 5 April 1858, Madame d'Houet died in France and, two days later, her remains were laid to rest in the little cemetery of Gentilly. During the period of religious unrest in France in 1905, her relics were removed to the burial ground of the convent of the F.C.J.s at Upton Hall, Birkenhead.

In 1863, St. Philomena's kindergarten was opened by the Limerick Society, 'at a moment's notice', on 19 January, as a prohibition had been issued the previous day from the pulpit of each Catholic church in the city, forbidding parents to send their children to Protestant schools. This new faculty was referred to as an 'Academy', as the use of this term was considered more 'sophisticated'. In the same year, Bishop George Butler blessed the chapel.

In 1903, following the early death of her mother, a six year old child entered the school. This schoolgirl spent twelve years at Laurel Hill, and went on to become Limerick's finest novelist. Kate O'Brien wrote much about her native place, and her novel The Land Of Spices, vividly portrayed her old school, its pupils and, perhaps above all, its nuns.

In 1908, the day-school for senior day pupils was opened with accommodation for 80 girls, while St. Philomena's continued to cater for the junior pupils.

It is now one hundred and forty-five years since the F.C.J.'s came to Limerick and during that time 'Laurel Hill' has seen many changes in the social and economic life of Limerick. In the rapidly changing world of education, the school remains one of the finest of its kind in Ireland and an enduring monument to its French foundress.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

without Calomel—and you'll jump out of bad in the morning full of vim and vigour bad in the morning tull of vim and vigeur. The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bits into your bowels daily. If this hile is not flowing ireely, your food doesn't digest. You get headschest and feel rotten. You get constitued. Your whole system is poisoned and you leed some slack, and the world looks black.

Lazstives help a little, but a mere bowel neverneast doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Cesters Little Liver Riles to get these two pears of hile flowing freely and make you feel "up and on." Harnless, gentle, yet amazing in making tile flow freely. Ask for Carters Little Liver Pills. Stubbonly refuse snything else.

SHE'S "ON TOP OF THE WORLD" A DIFFERENT WOMAN NOW KRUSCHEN HAS BEATEN HER RHEUMATISM

To-day, she's "on too of the world," feeling better brighter in every way. Entirely free from the racumatism that racked her day and night. But read what she, yet another grateful Kruschen enthusels. Says to suffer such dreadful paing and night but rees and shoulders, to say nothing of my beck, which used in feel as though it would break. I had no peace especially at night, but since taking Kruschen Saits for a few weeks only. I feel a different woman, thank goodness. I have no peins now. I feel much brighter and better in every way, and so shall continue with Kruschen regularly."—(Mrs.) M. H.

Most rheumatic pains are caused by the accumulation of acid impurities in the joints, and muscles. Kruschen disperses these impurities and because his both aperient and duretic, it helps the body fush away through the boysels and kidneys. Once they're away, so is pain.

The Chairman (Mr. William O'Connor, M.C.C.) said that the question was being brought up at the next meeting of the County Council. He appealed to the people of the town not to waste water, adding that it cost a lot to pump the water from the River Feale to the reservoir.

FIRE PRECAUTIONS.

Fire precautions in the town were discussed, and a suggestion was made to re-introduce the wartime voluntary system, the voluntary workers to be trained once or twice a year in the working of a fire hose.

The Secretary (Mr. R. Woulfe said that three aged fire extinguishers stood in a very battered glasscase in the Square. The Co. Council should, he said, renew these extinguishers and repair the case.

A vote of sympathy with the relatives of the late Timothy Warren was passed.

The Story Of St. John's Cathedral, Limerick

IN view of the special collection in the city on Sunday next, in aid of two worthy Diocesan purposes—the fund for the reconstruction of St. John's Cathedral and the erection of a new Diocesan Seminary the subjoined special article on the history of the former building will be read with much interest. This contribution, which gives a comprehensive outline of how St. John's Cathedral came to be built, was specially written for the "Limerick Leader" by a correspondent who signs himself "S. del G."

in 1853, Dr. John Ryan, Bishop of Limerick, decided to take down of appearance in the exterior, and the old Parish Chapel of St. John's, not only because it was unilt for a place of Divine Worship, Originally it was intended to erect a plain substantial edifice, sufficiently spaceious it was unilt for a place to Divine Worship, Originally it was intended to erect a plain substantial edifice, sufficiently spaceious it was unilt for a place to Divine Worship, Originally it was to be of the simplicat character, and without ornament and it was one of the first conditions that it should cost the smallest possible sum, one of the hardest workers he hand the scenes was the then Administrator, Key, Wm. A special view or the Cather The first stone was laid by Dr. Ryan on 1st May, 1858. It is rather interesting to note that the church was about half finished when it began to attract much attention ments in the Cathedral, a statue beyond the parish and those imme of the Biessed Virgin by Benzoni, distributions of the Diocess of Limerick. This decision rendered some alterations necessary in the arrangements of the bliocess of Limerick. This decision rendered some alterations necessary in the arrangements of the blioling, but, fortunately, as the church was originally designed to cater for a large congregation, the plan required but little alteration, but tile height and decoration of the building had to be altered considerably as the plain structured designed merely for a Parish Church was hardly suitable in character for a Cathedral. It was unfortunate that so much of the work had been campleted before it was decided to build the Cathedral, because it was impossible at that stage, without incurring considerable expense, to alter the cathedral for the cathedra

One of the most striking ornaments in the Cathedral, a statue of the Blessed Virgin by Benson, was presented by William Monsell M.P.

M.P. Strike Mrs. Frances lafety were most generous in the height of the spire would be 253 feet but when completed the top of the cross that surmounts the spire was 275 feet above the ground, the highest in Ireland. GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT IN aided by subscriptions that poired in unasked, from all sides decided to proceed with the work the following May. A contract was entered into with a Newcastle on Tyne contractor named Mussingham and he completed it on the August 1883, when with the aid of the architect, who mounted to the top of the scaffold, he fixed the cross at the apex of the spire.

The work went on enthusiastically from the start and the stone used was from the Rosbrien Quarries, which were famous at the time. The stone was carved and placed in position by local artisabs and the finished spire remains a fitting monument to their industry and skill. A very great disappointment was in store for the people of Limerick before the spire was finally completed. The last stone of the spire was placed in position on 30th September, 1832, and the banners of the various trades guilds floated from the apex of the spire.

OLD CONVENT BUILDING.

IN the year 1825, Daniel Ryan Kane leased to William Newsom the dwellinghouse and part of the lands of Courtbrack, in the South Liberties, approximately seven acres.

In the year 1845, William Newsom leased to Laurel Hill Convent the greater part of the premises originally demised to him by Daniel Ryan Kane, with the houses and building thereon and that other part of the premises called Knapsack Lodge.

The leasehold premises retained by William Newsom consisted of the frontage to the South Circular Road, on which now stand the houses of Victoria Terrace, etc., up to the small one-storey lodge, apparently built as a gate lodge, on the original entry to Laurel Hill, and extending to and including the passage originally Albert Place, leading to the Reparation Convent.

"But the good Sisters persisted and endured, worked and prayed, until they eventually had created one of the finest schools in Ireland."

Bishop Newman told the con-gregation that it was most imporgregation that it was most impor-tant that we preserved our culture, including our language, especially in a world that was becoming featureless culturally, ironically levelled by its high-rise buildings, made drab by its uniform consum-er economy and depersonalised by its faceless international political structures.

"It is good that there should be schools like this, devoted to Irish culture," said Bishop Newman, who also saluted the work of the Model School and the recently established Gaelscoit in Newcastle West.

It was indeed a memorable day for Sr. Benigna, the founder of the school. Her courage and dedica-tion were praised by both Bishop Newman and the Mayor of Limertck, Senator rat Kenneay. "Sne assumed the responsibility of this school with courage and enthusiasm, inspiring a sincere love for the language in the students of those years," said Bishop Newman.

The school started in 1935 with 50 pupils and today has 365.

"Fifty years ago, Sr. Bengna had the courage and enthusiasm to take on this responsibility. This enthusiasm was continued by Sr. Dolores Mutholland, F.C.J., and Sr. Catherine Geary (the present principal), both past pupils of the "A" school", said Mayor Kennedy.

Celebration

Sr. Benigna told the guests at the celebration dinner how glad she was to be present for the occasion. She told how only after one year teaching she took up the position at the "A" school.

When the change was mooted, the old Deanery in O'Connell Street was selected as the new G.P.O., but the price was considered too high and the Deanery was bought by the Munster Bank, and later acquired by the Munster and Leinster Bank.

The steamers for this service, as well as many others, were built in their Waterford yard, and there also they built the 35 Neptune by express command of the Czar of Russia for the newly-founded St. Peters-bourg Steamship Company, the company the Czar had promoted for trading be-tween St. Petersbourg and

This Steemship Company wa swned by the Melcolm-sor s and managed for them by Anthony Robinson, a Limerick Friend, who opened an office for the Company in Mark Lane, London, He left Limerick to tive in Landon.

They also employed a large number of men working the Silvermines at Shalled, near Nenagh, where one of their old beam pumping engines was to be seen up to a few years ago, apparently in good order, though it had not been worked for over 60 years.

A row of cottages with the vveil-known Malcolmson felt roofs is still a conspicuous object on a hog road near Castleconnell – all that is now left of what was once a huge factory making peat briqueties and peat oil.

Newsom - William News-om from Cork married Phoebe Ridgway of Water-ford, 1824. They lived in Laure! Hill House, but, on ren dying to Dublin (about 1845), sold their house to a French Order of Nuns for a school for young ladies.

The nuns have added to it from time to time till now it is one of the largest boarding schools in Munster.

Farmbank

William Newsom's son, Alfred also built himself a nice house, called Fernback, at the opposite side of the river, but when he went to reside at Mount Wilson, Edenderry, in 1887, he sold it and in 1925 it was sold to the Salesian Order of Nuns for a girl's school.

William Newsom's eldest son, Henry, was a very regular attender of Dublin Yearly Meeting and Munster Quarterly Meeting of Friends.

Pease – in 1660 a Dutch family named Pease settled in Bellintica, Sixmilebridge, Co. Clare and built an oil mill Co. Clare and bust an oil mill there for crushing flax seed. In 1712 Coorge Pease, member of Llimerick Meeting, married Elizaboth Randall of Cork. He died at "Ballinagown, near Limerick," in 1743 and his widow married Joshua Fennell of Co. Tipnerary

Flax took so much good out of the soil that larmers gave up growing it, so that the Peases sold the mill in 1770 and removed to Darlington, where they became very large employers and railway pioneers.

The ruined mill at Sallintlea still stands and the original lease fell to the possession of the decendants of the original lessor, the Fitzjames Kellys of Sixmilebridge.

We have in Limerick Meeting House a book "Truth Exetted" by J. Burnyeat, 1691, and across the fly-leaf written "Elizabeth Pease, her book."

it is interesting to note in the viriage of Sixmilebridge — which is west of the Shannon and therefore, native Irish - in the old market house is a stab with the words "Honover Square, 1733," and there are two other slabs, one "Frederick Squall, 1733," the other "George Street, 1733," placed in the walls of the street near the Market House.

Our books record that "Amy Hell dyed at the Oyle Mills, Co. Clare, 29-4-1732."

It is interesting to observe that William Penn's mother (wife of Admiral Penn) was the daughter of a Dutchman named John Jasper, who had settled in the same neighbourhood, at Rathla-

Pike - James Martin Pike married Debarah Hill of Limerick, 1902. The Pikes had some property in the neighbourhood of High Street, Limerick, and a lane there still bears the name, "Pike's Row." The Pikes left Limerick for Dublin in 1803 and in those days had to make the journey by coach.

Scarr - Two young Englishmen, John and Lodge Scarr, after serving their time to the sea business in London, came to Limerick, and in 1850 opened a shop at 15 Patrick Street, Being young and enterprising, on the facia board they placed their name first, then the number and then their

This the public read as "Scarr Bros, 15 Teamen from London," and thinking so many teamen must be able to give good value, flocked into their establishment, but when they painted the background blue they were known as "Scarr Bros., 15 Teamen on a blue look-out."

a bile look-out."
Another instance of an unexpected effect of placing a comma was told by a Limerick friend, Thomas Abbott, of his uncle, Paul Abbott, of North Abbey, Youghal.

P. Abbott's business was that of importing goods from the Continent at a time when privateering was common. One time his ship was boarded by pirates, but, nothing dounted, he explained that he was "Paul, Abbott of North Abbey, Youghal, Ireland." where-upon they thought it better to leave such a holy men alone and withdraw. Sikes — Here was yet another friend in the tea trade. Their shop was at the corner of George Street and Shannon Street. Taverner - Although frequently serving on commit-tees, the Taverners do not seem to have been prominont Friends at any time. Anne Taverner was a re-corded Minimer and several imes received a minute for "service in the love of the Gospel" in other Meetings, viz.: Co. Wicklow and Leinster, 1794, etc.

Though the name of Faverner has long been extinct, their relatives later drew rents from "West-bourne" and a house in Glentworth Street

Unthank - The Unthanks were numerous and active Friends from 1712 till 1895. In the old part of Limerick, called Mungret Street, there is a plot of ground still known as "Uthanks Gar-den," and a lane as "Joss's Lane." These took their Lane." These took their name from Joss Unthank, who had his business and property there.

One family of Unthanks, after spending several weeks in Paris, returned with a craze to have their grounds at Templeville laid out after the plan of the Petit Trianon at Paris.

They erected a small spiral tower oriented with four coloured glass windows: green for spring, red for summer, orange for autumn and blue for winter. They had winding paths and statues about their group as. They brought three small yaw trues from the gara of Napalson which they planted in the new briends graveyard and which throws so well that now they must be the largest yews in the country.
