

Another assault on Georgian Limerick? No ...

BY BILLY KELLY

WHEN passing through the Crescent, Limerick, this week you may have noticed that the corner building at Lower Hartstonge Street is being knocked.

But those who have been for Georgian Limerick need not worry.

Planning permission was granted to the New Ireland Assurance Company to change the building at the Crescent into offices.

They will, however, have to rebuild it in Georgian style, to conform with the surrounding buildings.

Manager

The agency manager of New Ireland, Mr. O'Flaherty, told me this week that the house was structurally weak, and had to be rebuilt.

He added that the new building would comply with the requirements of the Limerick Corporation, and would not damage the look of the Crescent, but help to improve it.

Limerick An Oige

The An Oige dance continues next Tuesday with music by Mushroom. Full memberships of An Oige are issued each Tuesday night, from 8 to 10 p.m., at the Information Centre, temporary Limerick Youth Hostel, Henry Street. Please bring a passport size photo when applying. Handbooks for Scotland, England & Wales, and Ireland, are on sale there also.

If you are going abroad, you should bring a copy of the International Handbook with you. It can be purchased at the Information Centre, price 50p. Also available from Shannonside Tourist Information office, O'Connell Street, Limerick.

All An Oige members wish a speedy recovery to full health, to member, Michael Hogan, after his recent accid-
