

A queue forms in front of the now defunct Carlton Cinema in 1989, and the film that was showing Indiana Jones. Brookes Properties have transformed most of the property in this block and the Bank of Scotland is now standing on this site. None of the development in Henry Street was started when this photograph was taken