THE LAX WEIR FISHERY.

The property known as the Lax Weir Fishery which was recently purchased from the Shannon Company by an English Syndicate, has been taken over by its new owners, and arrangements are in course of progress to begin fishing operations at once. With this object in view Mr. Patrick McInerney, the new manager, has for the past few days been busily engaged in carrying out what should prove effective measures in the development of the fishery. Several new boats have been added to those in existence, and it is also proposed to augment the staff of men who were employes of the old company so as to bring the number up to sixty, or possibly more. This undoubtedly will confer a boon on local fisher folk, and whose existence at present is a most precarious and uncertain one.
