

Square dancing: Limerick village tops in Glór

AFTER Abbeyfeale won the first ever Glór na nGael in 1963, Dromcollogher made every effort to emulate their neighbours. Shops, schools and businesses in the area dealt as much as possible in our native tongue and exactly six years later they were honoured with first place. Excitement was at fever pitch when President de Valera arrived in the town for the presentation. The Square in Dromcollogher was the stage for hours of dancing and entertainment as our picture shows. -Sean Curtin

Square dancing: Local Dromcollogher people dance in recognition of their village winning the coveted Glór na nGael trophy in April, 1969

