Our County towns . . . and villages . . .then and now

This is the village of Hospital in County Limerick. On the left as it is now and on the right, as it was in 1970. While the picture right was printed only recently it is interesting tonote the changes that have taken place in a relatively short time
