

A New Hotel, close to everything in Limerick.
But nothing in Limerick comes close to it.

The Glentworth Hotel has been a household word on the Irish hotel scene for well over a century. When the old hotel went into voluntary retirement, its passing was lamented by the citizens of Limerick, whom it had served so well.

A new Glentworth Hotel has now risen to take its rightful place within the Hotel industry. This new hotel will combine all the expertise of the present with the courtesy and atmosphere of the past.

The "Glen" offers first class accommodation at very reasonable rates. Its 80 bedrooms are all centrally heated and private bathroom suites are available with most rooms.

Other interesting aspects of the hotel are our Sarsfield Grill, which is open from 12 noon to 12 midnight, and our Main Restaurant, which features Patrick Sarsfield with a full history of his adventurous career.

The finest cuisine Limerick can offer our visitors is available at the "Glen" where you are assured of personal attention and courtesy for which the Irish are world famous.

Our two bars are featured individually. In our Vintage Bar, the décor points to paintings of vintage cars and old vintage wine labels, whereas our Cocktail Bar has its theme in Irish culture.
