On the report of the Loyula Compensation
Sill, Mr. Wolfe offered certain clauses of anomaly nent, to diftinguish on the principle of remareation between those who had been are any faterers and others, a very numerous class who isqued both life and property to the far and no performing the duty of brave and cels: he conceived such description of a second imply entitled to fulfil compensation - 21 7. He would have a partiality to the face error, hewn to refrient in preference to non-reference to non-reference to non-reference to non-reference to non-reference to non-reference to the golfion of pecuniary compensation adjudged for the rain of houses or manufacturers, should be em-

A conversation not marked by any noveles occurred respecting the two first clauses. To the third Lord Castlereagh briefly replied, that great isconvenience would arife to make a claufe compulfory to build or repair great edifices on the firength of mere compensation, where probably the fortunes of individuals might not be competest from the ordinary fluctuations in trade to effed fuch purpoles, however defirable it might be in a public point of view, particularly as the prefer fubject before the House, did not from its principle, extend to any thing commensurate to the refloration of manufactories either deftroyed or faspended through various weighty but colleveral caufes, not directly refulting from the rebellion; gentlemen would therefore perceive the impolicy of confidering this point of the subject to the extent which its advocates feem to think requifice-A division enfued on the firft claufe-Ages 7 - Notes 45 .- The latter blaufes were negatijed without a divition .- Adjourned.
