

Prominent Gael's Death

Matches Postponed .

Owing to the sudden and unexpected death of Mr Martin Geary, Feenagh, the final of the Castletown hurling tournament arranged for Assension Day did not take place. The teams interested were Granagh and Feenagh and a silver cup was offered to the winners. As the deceased was a prominent supporter of the Feenagh club the team requested a postponement of the tie, to which Granagh consented.
