

Descendent of Danish Kings of Limerick

Mr Harold Philip Harold-Berry (79), who died at his residence, Ballyronara, Burtovant, on Friday, was a son of the late Mr John Harold Berry, J.P., D.L., and a direct descendant of the Harold, Danish King of Limerick in the sixth century. The hyphenated name is a reminder of the 18th century union of two important families. The Harold also had tenants in Dublin, where the name Harold's Cross perpetuates the connection, while the Berry have been in occupation of Ballyronara since the advent of the Anglo Normans.
