DEATH OF MISS A. F. DOYLE

Limerick has lost a most estimable lady in the person of Miss Alice Fitzgibbon Doyle, who passed away yesterday in St. John's Hospital. Deceased had been in failing health for some time back, although she was out and about as usual up to some days ago. A member of a brilliant and widely respected family, she was second daughter of the late Daniel Doyle, one of the most prominent of local solicitors in his day. She was sister of the late Judge Charles F. Doyle, of the late Daniel Doyle, Assistant Registrar-General, and of the late James A. Doyle, solicitor. Of great charm of manner and much culture, she was well-read and highly accomplished, and took a great and practical interest in social and charitable movements. It can be truly said of her, indeed, that she spent her whole life doing good, and her help for the worthy causes she espoused was given with natural sincerity and generosity of spirit and without the slightest trace of ostentation. Always of a sunny, cheerful temperament, she was never happier than when engaged in some work for the relief of the poor and distressed. She unselfishly devoted much time, money and energy to helping the various city charities, and gave very useful support in addition to the industrial revival movement in its early years of struggle. The late Miss Doyle was of splendid disposition, and of many admirable qualities of head and heart. The news of her demise will evoke feelings of the deepest regret not only in her native Limerick but in many other parts of Ireland where she and the other members of the family were so well known and highly respected. The only survivor of the family is her sister, Miss Lily Doyle, and to that very esteemed lady in particular the sincerest sympathy, in which we fully join, is extended in her hour of sorrow.

The funeral will take place to Mount St. Lawrence Cemetery tomorrow (Tuesday) after 10.30 o'clock Mass in St. Michael's Church.

him he threw a bottle after him. He had the greatest difficulty in controlling his son.

District Justice Gleeson, in imposing a fine of 10/- and binding defendant to the peace for twelve months, said he must control his son otherwise than by throwing bottles, which was a method unknown to the law.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS

APPEAL ON BEHALF OF SUFFERERS

(To the Editor, "Limerick Leader.")

Dear Sir—During the past few weeks, we here in this country have, been experiencing the cold winds of a harsh winter, but most of us have had good food and clothing to keep us healthy and warm. Can you imagine the present sorry plight of many of our fellow-men, and especially the children, on the Continent of Europe, who have hardly sufficient of the bare necessities of life, and the hardships they must endure?

Last year the Dublin Friends Emergency Committee appealed for clothes and money to help to alleviate this suffering to some small degree and the appeal met with a very generous response. Over £2,000 was contributed and many old clothes were received. We are grateful to all who answered this appeal.

May we again, through your paper, appeal to the people of this country to see if they have any clothes which they could spare or whether they once again would send us a cash donation. The money is used for the buying of food and for the expenses of administering the relief. All clothes despatched by us from this country are sent to our London office through the Irish Red Cross Society and from London are distributed by our workers on the Continent. We are grateful to the Irish Red Cross Society for assisting us in this work.

All donations and clothes should be sent to the Treasurer, Dublin Friends Emergency Committee, 6 Eustace Street, Dublin.

On behalf of the Dublin Monthly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends.

IVAN WEBB, Clerk.
