LATE MR. THOMAS ROCHE, CHEMIST

The death of Mr. Thomas Roche, chemist, Patrick St., Cork (writes our Kilmallock correspondent), has been received with intense regret by his many friends in Kilmallock district. Born at Effin, as a boy he showed very considerable ability at the local National school, afterwards attending the Christian Brothers School, Charleville. He was always in the forefront and at the top of his class. Taking up the study of chemistry, in which he qualified early, he carried on a most successful business in that profession in the city by the Lee. The affability and courtesy, both of which were a strong feature of his boyhood, remained with him through the passing of the years, and his kindly disposition and un-failing courtesy never failed to win new friends and retain the old. He will be long remembered as one of nature's own perfect gentlemen.

WANDERING ANIMALS

District Justice Kenny, at Adare Court on Tuesday last, issued a warning to the effect that he would deal more severely with persons convicted of allowing animals to wander on the public road.

On the way from Croom Court that morning, he said, he met at least from 15 to 20 animals straying on the public road. His only necessary materials available in abundance building to be started is developed. This takes about eight weeks to complete.

FAMOUS PAINTING

The life-size painting in the Town Hall, recently and looks like a masterpiece of it. This painting is one of the best of the century was executed by John Haverty, R.H.A., a member of the Corporation. The Corporation considered this famous artist in 1790. His work in oils of O'Connell's portrait product may now be seen in the Council Chamber of the Corporation. Haverty's fee for the painting was one hundred and fifty guineas, by the way, a high price for his time in Limerick. He enjoyed a large popularity in Limerick as "Limerick Piper" and his work of outstanding merit. He died at the age of 70 years.

IN KEEN DEMAND

Rabbits are in keener demand in Limerick for cultivation. Indeed, the supply does not meet the demand, though the price offered is four times that which obtained in 1914. Limerick dealers are advised to buy extensively, though well advised to get their stock during war times rabbits were scarce. The housewife at the market. To-day, she has to pay for it minus the
