Fo 50 years, the speaker said, Canon Howard had given his body and soul to God, and now, after 50 years, thank God, he was with them strong and vigorous. During all that time he lived as a saint of God, and how often did he stand before them and offer up the Holy Sacriflee to bring blessings on the people and on his parish There was no one there who had not benedited from the ministrations of Canon Howard, No. one would ever sufficiently know what the Oanon had done for their churches and their schools. That celebration that day was one of the greatest acts of respect they could show him; it was a grand act in the life of the Church, and a grand act in the life of Cutholic Ireland. That day they were honouring their worthy Canon as a good man and a minister of God, and they all prayed that he my be long spared to them (cheers). The address was then read and presented by the indefatigable Secretary of the Chapel Committee, Rev Father Duggan, C C, Newport. who, on coming forward, said he considered it a great privilege and honour to be called on to good people of the united parishes of Newport, Birdhill, and Tour. It showed the deep jove and respect that the people had for their great bonour to take part in the celebration of amiable and worthy pastor (obsers, and " He is Canon Howard's Golden Jubilee ; it was an worthy of it.") Rev Father Duggan then read inspiring scene and was evidence of the grand the address, which conveyed the kindly exfeelings existing between the priests and the pressions and tokens of esteem of the parishioners to Canon Howard on the Golden Jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood, and 39 years that he had laboured amongst them as their curate and pastor. During that long period he had spared no effort to elevate the spiritual and temporal to God. He had been the people's trusted leader and pastor during troubled times, and he had favoured and co operated in every movement to bring the land into the ownership of the people; and to provide the workingman with suitable houses ; he had built or renovated their schools, and, at considerable expense, had improved their churches without putting any den on the people. He had guarded them as a mild and gentle father, and by example stimulated them in the service of their Divine aster. The people wished to be united with their Canon in the joys of this occasion when he was celebrating the Jubilee of the many years of noble work of God and for them, and they earnestly prayed that he may be long spared to his flock to guard and guide
