Not those HEMORRHOIDS

U FBEL like jumping for joy when rment of external piles vanishes. usually comes quickly when you OAN'S OINTMENT. It quiets ching and protects and lubricates ender tissues with its soothing, ptic ingredients. Don't let external distress you any longer — use N'S OINTMENT, NOW. Excel-so for relieving the fiery torment of a and other irritating skin coms. Used successfully for over sian Order to be ordained. On Tuesday night, 9th inst., he visited the Very Rev. Canon O'Molloy, and said first Mass in Killaloe Church on the following day. Since his ordination he has been on the teaching staff of the Salesian College at Pallaskenry, and expects to be called to his Spiritual Mission in Mexico in a short time. He is a fluent speaker of Irish, of Spanish, and of other Continental languages and during his short stay in town visited St. Lua and St. Flannan's oratories, and was delighted with the scenic beauties of Royal Kin-cora.

HE LIVED AN EXEMPLARY LIFE

The death of Mr. Matthew O'Connell, of the Square, Abbeyfeale, which occurred in his 70th year, is much regretted by many friends and relatives (writes our Abbey-feale correspondent). More than the customary feelings of respect and reverence for the departed were observed amongst the very large attendance of the general public at his interment in St.
Mary's Cemetery, on Sunday last.
Deceased was a man of exemplary character, whose whole life appeared to be divided between his work as a house contractor and prayer. Always kindly, generous and reserved in all his actions, he commanded the respect and esteem, not only of many relatives and friends, but of the public generally, whom he edified by an exemplary life in all his actions. Many expressions of regret and sympathy were conveyed to the members of his family. The prayers at the graveside were read by Rev. J.
Halpin, C.C.; Rev. J. Liston, C.C., and Rev. J. Downey, N.S.W.
