

is at present head of the executive development programme. Mr. Mulcahy (38), who is son of Mr. William Mulcahy, Verona Esplanade, O'Connell Avenue, Limerick, has had much experience as a manager, lecturer and business consultant in Ireland, England and the United States.

Chairman

He was until recently chairman of the steering committee of the regional technical colleges advising the Minister for Education.

He is also a member of Comhlacht Comhairleathach na Gaeilge, the body set up by the Government to advise it on matters concerning the promotion of the Irish language.

He is co-author of the N.I.E.C. publication "Planning Your Business" and has contributed articles to various journals on management, linguistics, technical and other subjects.

In Gael-Linn he will be responsible to Mr. Donal O Morain, Ceannasai, for the co-ordination and management of all their various projects and schemes.

Co-opted

At a meeting of the City Council, Clr. Vincent Feeney was unanimously co-opted to the Limerick Health Authority.

THE 'THING' WILL GO

The "thing" in the centre of Clare Street—which has been the target of criticism—will eventually go, it was revealed by the City Manager, Mr. T. P. Mac Diarmada, when the City Council met.

He said that the building was originally erected for the improvement of the sewers there.

He was replying to questions from the councillors on its removal.

Woolworth's profits up

Woolworths, the stores chain, has reported a pre-tax profits recovery of nearly £2,700,000 for last year.

With sales up from £272,000,000 to £295,700,000, profits totalled £39,440,000 against £36,753,000. Net profits after tax were up from £21,089,000 to £22,217,000. The company is paying again a dividend total of 20 per cent.

Woolworths are appointing a new Chairman from April 1. He is Mr. E. L. G. Medcalf (56), better known as "Bill" Medcalf.

The present Chairman, Mr. Fred Chaplin (63) retires on March 31.

THERE HAS been an increase of 50 per cent in bus fares on some routes, Clr. Frank Leddin told a meeting of the City Council.

He was speaking on a report concerning a deputation to C.I.E. over the fares, at which the company's area manager, Mr. E. Hession, said that the average fare increase per passenger was .9 of a penny.

Asked

The deputation asked C.I.E. to review the fare structure.

Clr. A. O'Driscoll suggested that there should be a twenty minutes service to Corbally, as the present service was inadequate at peak periods.

Ald G. E. Russell, referring to the erection of eight bus shelters in the city soon, suggested that one should be put up at the Salesian School.

Pope sees Dr. King's widow

Pope Paul met the widow of assassinated U.S. negro leader, Martin Luther King, yesterday and said he hoped that her husband's death would inspire a spirit of "pardon, peace and reconciliation."

Death of Miss Madge Daly

LIMERICK - BORN Miss Madge Daly, a staunch nationalist all her life, died at her residence, Lisadell, Kill Lane, Foxrock, Dublin, to-day—the 50th anniversary of the first Dail.

The late Miss Daly was aged 92, and was sister of Commandant Ned Daly, who was executed in 1916.

She was sister of Mrs. Tom Clarke, whose husband was also executed in 1916 and who was the first signatory of the 1916 Proclamation.

Her uncle, the late John Daly, was the first Labour Mayor of Limerick and held the office with distinction for three years.

He was the first Limerick Mayor to visit America with the famous mayoral chain. He died shortly after the 1916 Rising.

Madge Daly was a staunch nationalist all her life with her roots firmly planted in the old Fenian tradition, her father and grandfather being Fenians. She was a member of Cumann na mBan and went to jail for her principles.

Burned

The Daly home at "Ardevin," Ennis Road, was burned to the ground by the Black and Tans and both her life and her sisters' lives were threatened on many occasions because of their activities in the cause of independence.

Miss Daly proved herself to be a progressive business woman and was one of the founders of the now thriving Limerick Shoe Company, as well as several other industries in the city.

She was a former proprietor of Daly's Bakery, Sarsfield St.

During the troubled times her sympathies were always with the needy in the movement. Her charity knew no bounds and the poor always remembered her with great affection.

She is survived by her sisters, Agnes, Carrie, Mrs. T. Clarke and Mrs. E. Dore, N.C.R.I., Limerick.

The remains will be removed from Foxrock Church tomorrow (Wednesday) to Our Lady of the Rosary Church, Ennis Road. There will be Requiem Mass on Thursday at 11 o'clock and the funeral will take place immediately afterwards to Mount St. Laurence Cemetery.
