

- comes to Limerick's Lime Tree Theatre this Sunday for a rare gig in these parts.

of excellent Oh Pioneer earlier this year - followed by a sold out Irish tour.

510-seater Lime Tree Theatre on Sunday night. The Freewheel singer will the show, email competitions@limerickchronicle with your contact details.

OOAL release Christmas song in aid of St Gabriel's

FRESH from a wave of critical acclaim for his album Citizens, Owensie - real name Michael Owens (no relation!) - has written and recorded a new Christmas single 'The Old Breadline', with all proceeds going to St Gabriel's School and Centre in Limerick.

The single, released by local label Out On A Limb Records, is available as of last Friday via iTunes, Bandcamp, and various online stores.

With the festive period looming, Owensie decided that every cent from sales of the single should go to a worthy cause and with this in mind, it was decided to approach St Gabriel's School and Centre, specifically to the centre's hydrotherapy pool.

See www.outonalimbrecords.com for more details.

The Green jet off worldwide

TOP Limerick band Hermitage Green - fresh from a sold-out show in Whelan's in Dublin that had critics raving - play Dolan's Warehouse this Thursday night, their final gig for some time as they prepare to head off to Australia, South Africa and the US on tour. Doors for the gig are at 8pm and tickets are €10. Bon voyage!

Limerick On Record flying out of city shops

IT is the definitive collection documenting Limerick's musical heritage, and it is a perfect stocking filler this Christmas, with all proceeds benefitting Milford Hospice.

Limerick On Record is a stunning 62-track collection of songs covering a 50-odd year period. Just 100 copies remain on sale from Savins, O'Mahony's, Euro Empire, Milford and UCH. We have a copy to give away; email competitions@limerickchronicle.ie with the answer to the following question and your contact details: Which Limerick actor memorably had a hit with the song MacArthur Park?

Fred and Windings in the city library this Thursday

TOP bands Fred and Windings are among special guests performing at a gig in the Limerick City Library this Thursday to mark the music library in the Granary's 21st birthday.

Mayor of Limerick, Cllr Gerry McLoughlin, will preside over an event that includes live music of many styles which reflects the amazing variety in the collection at the music library.

Trad music, a classical violin recital, jazz trio Juxtaposition and the aforementioned Fred and Windings will all perform at the free event in the Granary this Thursday at 7pm.

Cork rockers Fred - featuring Jamin O'Donovan of these parts - will then play Upstairs in Dolan's on Thursday night.