

>>>> Full Monty In Limerick

The Ark Tavern played host to a lot of excited young females recently when the latest in the Full Monty craze came to Limerick. A bunch of well toned and tanned young men who aren't afraid of taking their cloths off in front of women arrived down to Limerick. Going by the name of the Chain Gang, they performed for six nights in the main function room of the Ark Tavern and all nights were sold out. The nights were a strictly female only affair as the DROP photographer found out to his embarrassment on the night. He wasn't allowed past the door which was a bit of relief as the screaming behind was enough to make a grown man cry according to reports. Luckily DROP managed to get a photo of some of the specments of men on offer just to let those who missed the night know what they missed exactly and their partners to know just what they need to look like. As the picture shows there's nothing special about the lads - nothing you wouldn't see walking down O'Connell Street during the Summer (Ed's Note - yeah right!!)

HOT ROCKS...

Always a highlight in the local musical calendar, this years IMRO Showcase takes place on Thursday 28th May at the Gallery. For a paltry £3, six of Limerick's best take to the stage for a night spanning the full range of live music .

Strauss, Potbelly, Slinky, Figment, Tooth and Rhythm for the Radars are this year's talents and together span the full range from Sub-Pop Grunge to blissed out drum n'bass.

The night kicks off a 10.30pm and will be reviewed in both Drop and the next issue of Hot Press

LOCAL BAND STRAUSS WILL BE ON THE SHOWCASE
