The Cows are Back in Town

FORMER intern with Limerick Post, Kelly Hood returns to Limerick more than a dozen years later as career artist with a celebrity following. Her show of paintings, 'The Cows are Back in Town' will open at Draiocht in Adare on Monday 10 and will be launched officially on Thursday 13, 7.30pm by The Mustard Seed's Dan Mullane.

Kelly is an LCGA graduate who began painting professionally in 2001 and has had many solo shows. She paints in a photo-realistic style, monochrome and colour, witty portraits of farm and exotic animals. Her client list includes the US Embassy, The Cranberries, Tommy Tiernan, Richard Burton and Terry Wogan.

Kelly Hood's exhibition at Draiocht Gallery and Shop is current until Sunday December 16. Pictured is typical: 'The Good, The Bad and the Ugly'.

dREA at Cobblestone Joes

ON stage this Thursday 6 in Cobblestone Joes is dREA with special guests John Ryan and Tom Ryan. dREA will be performing tracks from the debut record which is due for release in 2013. It was engineered by Owen Lewis, produced by Giuliano Baglioni and mixed by Ciaran Bradshaw and Kieran Lynch for Smalltone Productions.

DREA plays Cobblestone Joes this Thursday December 6.

Fox Jaw Bounty Hunters on the FundIt trail

LIMERICK'S Fox Jaw Bounty Hunters have launched a FundIt campaign for the mixing and mastering of their second album. The long and arduous task of recording their second album is over and up until now has been fully funded by FJBH themselves. But they now need your support to fund the mixing and mastering of their sophomore record. The 'All or Nothing' campaign is exactly what it sounds like, and if their target is not reached by December 10, they received none of the funds gathered so far!

The money raised on FundIt will go directly towards mixing the album with producer Dave 'Skippy' Christophers (Whipping Boy, Josh Ritter, Mundy) and chief engineer of this project, Owen Lewis (REM, Snow Patrol, The Killers), and mastered by WAV Mastering's very own Richard Dowling (Foo Fighters, Interpol, Death In Vegas).

As a treat to current funders, and to any future funders, Fox Jaw Bounty Hunters will be performing a special hometown acoustic show in The Blind Pig, this Friday December 7, where we can check out the new songs from the album live, and even fund the band in person! And remember of course, there are many rewards on offer for what you may be able to fund. Fox Jaw Bounty Hunters play an acoustic set from 9pm.
