

Alynda Lee Segarra

PERFECT to wind up your Bank Holiday weekend, Hurray for the Riff Raff is the second gig in the Americana series following the success of Birds of Chicago last week. Presented by The Locke Bar and Roadworks Tours, Hurray for the Riff Raff is Alynda Lee Segarra, originally from the Bronx. She's backed by a bunch of young honkytonkers The Tumbleweeds, whose mountain strings and acoustics bathe her compelling voice in an authentic wash of hobo folk sound. The outfit is touring their latest album, 'Look Out Mama'.

Hot Press awarded the album four stars and the Irish Times deemed it worthy of the maximum five stars. "A gig worth getting along to, something unique and soulful in the intimate venue above the Locke Bar," is what the folks at The Loft are telling us. Support band on the night will be 'B and the Honeyboy' who are touring their new album at the moment. They are Aileen Myhtne and KY McEvoy (brother of Eleanor McEvoy). Hurray for the Riff Raff perform at The Loft this Monday May 6.

Senakah release second album

LIMERICK's Senakah (formerly Seneca) recorded their new album 'Human Relations' with Noel

Senakah for Dolan's

Hogan of The Cranberries on production duties. The album follows 2008's critically acclaimed debut 'Sweeter Than Bourbon'. On working with Noel Hogan for 'Human Relations', guitarist Brendan O'Gorman told Limerick Post, "You have to be able to put your trust in a producer as you give them a lot of creative control over your music so working with Noel was fantastic. It's great to have someone with that much experience and ability. Noel also has great natural instinct as a producer and really brought out the potential of the new songs."

2012 saw the successful release of two singles from the new album and another single 'Ugly' released in March.

Senakah play Dolan's this Thursday May 2 to launch their second album 'Human Relations'. Special guests Dave Hope and also Emma Langford.
