Flynn brings jungle beats to Macronite

DANCE music collective Macronite blasts back this January through the rain, wind and storms to bring you an all residents night to warm those cockles. After a slew of techno at the clubnite this year there's gonna be bangin' Jungle and D'n'B flavors happening in The Warehouse, making that Void system show what it's really made of. On the main floor expect Flynn, Deego and Nubus with a live set. On the Terrace, Dan Sykes, Greaney, Adam Broe will be on floor out for all the lucky bass fanatics. A veteran of the scene for many years involved with Macronite and Fried Drum and Bass crews, this man has been around long enough to know exactly how to rock a room.

Recent addition to the Macronite crew, BadManDeego is no stranger to a mashup dance floor, having rinsed his signature tear out of oldskool sound around the country for a few years. He has been involved with Jungle Boogie Crew and his own night Rewind Dublin: "Expect amens and vibes by the barrel load".

Nubus AKA Paddy Mulcahy, for his young years, is already starting to make waves with his productions having released his 8 track album 'Enter Morning' last July. Paddy will be furnishing a worthwhile live set. Macronite happens in Dolan's this Friday January 24.

Drive play on Saturday 25

LIVE music continues to attract the crowd. The Old Quarter Bar on Little Ellen Street weekend features Alan O'Shea onstage on January 24. Expect to hear a diverse range of music from the singer who can perform Cash, AC/DC, Christy Moore or Bruno Mars one night.

Limerick rockers 'Drive' cover Kings of Leon, Lizzy, RATM and U2 to name a few. Limerick Post's enquiry into whether they would be playing any Garth Brooks this weekend was met with stony silence. We can all look forward to a free evening when Drive play The Old Quarter Saturday January 25.

The following weekend live music comes to Crosstown on Friday January 31 and Fingers on Saturday February 1 at the city venue.

New video and single for Fox Jaw

Fox Jaw, new video, new lineup

AFTER a quiet 2013, Limerick band Fox Jaw, formerly known as Fox Jaw Bounty Hunters, have made the long awaited return with new material. "This isn't a band reinventing themselves, this is plain and simple evolution", says the band who returns, not only with a new abbreviated name but with an armada of new material and new recruits. Being some years older and wiser, band members say they are now "equipped with a sagacious mind for the road ahead."

The new single is 'Kerosene' on release from February 28. The video, directed by the Fox Jaw's drummer Shane Serrano, is based on a concept conjured up with Blind Boy Boatclub of The Rubberbandits. It stars Kevin Kiely Jnr. ('World War Z', 'The Dark Knight Rises') and features a grisly performance from Richard Lynch (ILoveLimerick.com and a much loved panto villain in UCH's production of 'Aladdin' this Christmas).

The video for 'Kerosene' is a thrilling introduction to their upcoming sophomore album, 'Ghost's Parade', recorded with producer Dave 'Skippy' Christophers (Josh Ritter, Whipping Boy) and engineer Owen Lewis.

Concert fundraiser for the Roche family

THE Unity Gospel Choir Limerick and musicians will put on a benefit concert for the Roche family who lost their home in an accident on Christmas Eve. This Thursday January 23 the choir with special guests Wiseguys, C Duo, Greg Ryan, Michelle Grimes, The Divine Jennifer Barron and more are holding a fundraiser concert in The Parlour Bar on Thomas Street. Expect music on all floors for this glitzy packed night, with lots of great raffle prizes well. Tickets are just €10 available from Caoimhe O'Brien at O'Mahony's Booksellers on O'Connell Street.
