KILRUSH MAN DROWNED.

(By Telegraph To-day.)

Last night a seaman named Thomas Bomino, of the steamer Leven, a native of Kilrush, was killed by walking off Tarbert Pier, the night being very dark. Michael Walshe, a comrade, bravely jumped in to rescue him in fourteen feet of water. On rising to the surface he sustained fearful injuries, as his head struck against the masonry of the pier. Bomino's body has not yet been recovered.
