

E BILL AND

Times.—A night at Plymouth with the Lord. At my request, a strong recommendation. Purchase Art. have been passed, the Irish Land Purchase Bill, which is a very extensive one, and consequently the change ought to be found advantageous.

On Saturday evening a force of thirty extra police arrived in Tralee from the Depot in Dublin, and another contingent, numbering eighteen, reached Killybeg for the purpose of supplementing the local force, consisting of about forty men. The new arrivals will be placed in the protection post near places where outrages have been committed.

The contents of Lady Colin Campbell's contemplated novel will consist of a collection of essays which she wrote for the Saturday Review. They will be published soon by Messrs Sampson Low, and the title is "The Book of the Running Brook and Still Waters." The papers relate chiefly to the culture and capture of the water-fish. "The neglected wealth of English Waters."

In connection with the election about to take place in the city, the Sheriff has fixed the nomination for Saturday, July 3rd, and the polling, if there should be a contest, for the 7th. For the Western Division of the county the nomination will be on Monday, July 5th, and the polling on the 9th. The nomination for the Western Division will take place at Rathkeale on Wednesday, July 7th, and the polling on Saturday, the 10th.

At the annual dinner of the 7th Hussars held in London last week the following officers were present:—General Benson, C.B.; Lieut-General Dickson (colonel of the regiment); Major-General Sir Lyndal, Newburn, Bart.; Hon W. Lascelles, Colonel Francis Mayne Drew (commanding the regiment) and White; Lieut-Col. Peel; Majors Hunt, Paget, Reid, and Thompson; Captains Baird, the Hon R. Lawley, Morris, Panlet, Ridley, and Trousdale; and Messrs Carew, Hone, Haig, Holdsworth, Liebert, Mumm, Nicholson, Porter, Smith, Walker, Wingfield, and Warren.

The Croon fortnightly petty sessions were held yesterday, the only magistrate present being Captain Hatchell, R.M. There were six cases for hearing. Constable Bradley prosecuted Michael and Patrick Kennedy, of Croon, for being drunk and disorderly on the street of Croon on the 22nd inst, for which they were fined 5s and costs each. The same constable prosecuted Michael Connell and John Carroll, of Croon, for being drunk and disorderly on the street of Croon on the 22nd inst, for which they were fined 5s and costs each. Constable O'Sullivan prosecuted Patrick Costelloe and John Day for drunkenness. They were fined 2s 6d and costs each. The court then adjourned for a month.

With reference to the representation of Clare at the approaching General Election the Clare Journal says—"It is confidently stated that the Nationalists of Clare have decided to run two candidates, and that Mr. Parnell's nomination will have to contest the seats. The candidates spoken of are Mr. Bryan Clume, of Carahan, for East Clare, and Mr. Daniel McCarthy O'Donovan, of Broadford, youngest son of the late Mr. John O'Donovan, LL.D., the great Irish scholar and statesman, and brother of the great and illustrious O'Donovan, of Mervue, who was a member of the House of Commons. A strong opinion prevails that Mr. Parnell should not have gone outside the County to look for representatives.

A private investigation was held at the courthouse, Tipperary, on Saturday, relative to the murder of Edmund Allen, on the 6th January. Three witnesses were examined by Mr. Boyd, the County Prosecutor. On Friday Mr. Worrall, County Surveyor, visited Shroton, and took a map of the locality of the murder. On Friday morning there also visited it the two young ladies who were taken up by the Crown immediately after the murder, and it is stated pointed out to the authorities where they were seen, and the place where the body was found. Michael Hourigan, who was arrested in Feb. last, charged with the murder, will be placed on trial at Clonmel Assizes in July.

Another burglary of a very daring nature was committed on Saturday night in the timber yard of Messrs Francis Spaight and Sons, Bedford Row, quite close to Messrs McDonnell's yard, where a robbery was committed on the previous night. Fortunately in both places the booty obtained was inconsiderable. It appeared that about ten o'clock Head Constable Wall and some constables while on duty observed a light in an office in the yard where orders were taken; a window of which looks out in Bedford Row. The light was quietly placed in the office, to hide observations, it being probably surmised that it was Saturday night, it would be presumed the clerks were employed up to a more than usual late hour. The Head-constable's suspicions were however aroused, and he with some of his men quietly placed in the office, and by getting over the walls. The burglar, however, on a very sharp look out, and no doubt seeing the police outside through the window considered it full time to "shape." This he did, with alacrity, for when the police got inside no trace of the thief could be found. Thinking he might have been concealed among the timber, a minute search was made, during which Constable Hannan found, carefully secreted, a gold watch and some coppers which the burglar probably had in his possession. It is supposed that he effected his escape by climbing over the wall into the street, and means are being used to track him. No arrest has yet been made by the constabulary, but full enquiries are being instituted into the case.

The Clonmel Chronicle states that a dispute has arisen about the fixing of the date of the Tipperary pig market (usually held two days before the June great fair there), which, in all probability, will be decided in the law courts. Monday had been announced to the buyers for the holding of the market, but the Waterford buyers said that day would not suit their convenience, and they fixed Wednesday. The Limerick buyers objected, and insisted that the date be held on Monday, as originally fixed by them. The parties were then stepped in, and announced that the market be held on Wednesday. For the past week the dead-walls of Tipperary have been literally covered over with notices and placards, one set announcing Monday, and the other Wednesday. The parties issued papers stating any party holding the market on Monday would be prosecuted. At this juncture the Nationalists of the town intervened. They sent word round to the the name of Mrs. Caswell, Blackwater, and those of Miss Rose and party Shalbourne, were omitted from the list which was published on Saturday of invited guests to the luncheon party given by the officers of the 4th Brigade South Irish Division, Royal Artillery, on Friday last.

It is considered probable that the constabulary authorities will send a sub-division of the New West District, placing an officer in each of the police stations in the Western portion of this county. The district is a very extensive one, and consequently the change ought to be found advantageous.

On Saturday evening a force of thirty extra police arrived in Tralee from the Depot in Dublin, and another contingent, numbering eighteen, reached Killybeg for the purpose of supplementing the local force, consisting of about forty men. The new arrivals will be placed in the protection post near places where outrages have been committed.

The contents of Lady Colin Campbell's contemplated novel will consist of a collection of essays which she wrote for the Saturday Review. They will be published soon by Messrs Sampson Low, and the title is "The Book of the Running Brook and Still Waters." The papers relate chiefly to the culture and capture of the water-fish. "The neglected wealth of English Waters."

In connection with the election about to take place in the city, the Sheriff has fixed the nomination for Saturday, July 3rd, and the polling, if there should be a contest, for the 7th. For the Western Division of the county the nomination will be on Monday, July 5th, and the polling on the 9th. The nomination for the Western Division will take place at Rathkeale on Wednesday, July 7th, and the polling on Saturday, the 10th.

At the annual dinner of the 7th Hussars held in London last week the following officers were present:—General Benson, C.B.; Lieut-General Dickson (colonel of the regiment); Major-General Sir Lyndal, Newburn, Bart.; Hon W. Lascelles, Colonel Francis Mayne Drew (commanding the regiment) and White; Lieut-Col. Peel; Majors Hunt, Paget, Reid, and Thompson; Captains Baird, the Hon R. Lawley, Morris, Panlet, Ridley, and Trousdale; and Messrs Carew, Hone, Haig, Holdsworth, Liebert, Mumm, Nicholson, Porter, Smith, Walker, Wingfield, and Warren.

The Croon fortnightly petty sessions were held yesterday, the only magistrate present being Captain Hatchell, R.M. There were six cases for hearing. Constable Bradley prosecuted Michael and Patrick Kennedy, of Croon, for being drunk and disorderly on the street of Croon on the 22nd inst, for which they were fined 5s and costs each. The same constable prosecuted Michael Connell and John Carroll, of Croon, for being drunk and disorderly on the street of Croon on the 22nd inst, for which they were fined 5s and costs each. Constable O'Sullivan prosecuted Patrick Costelloe and John Day for drunkenness. They were fined 2s 6d and costs each. The court then adjourned for a month.

With reference to the representation of Clare at the approaching General Election the Clare Journal says—"It is confidently stated that the Nationalists of Clare have decided to run two candidates, and that Mr. Parnell's nomination will have to contest the seats. The candidates spoken of are Mr. Bryan Clume, of Carahan, for East Clare, and Mr. Daniel McCarthy O'Donovan, of Broadford, youngest son of the late Mr. John O'Donovan, LL.D., the great Irish scholar and statesman, and brother of the great and illustrious O'Donovan, of Mervue, who was a member of the House of Commons. A strong opinion prevails that Mr. Parnell should not have gone outside the County to look for representatives.

A private investigation was held at the courthouse, Tipperary, on Saturday, relative to the murder of Edmund Allen, on the 6th January. Three witnesses were examined by Mr. Boyd, the County Prosecutor. On Friday Mr. Worrall, County Surveyor, visited Shroton, and took a map of the locality of the murder. On Friday morning there also visited it the two young ladies who were taken up by the Crown immediately after the murder, and it is stated pointed out to the authorities where they were seen, and the place where the body was found. Michael Hourigan, who was arrested in Feb. last, charged with the murder, will be placed on trial at Clonmel Assizes in July.

Another burglary of a very daring nature was committed on Saturday night in the timber yard of Messrs Francis Spaight and Sons, Bedford Row, quite close to Messrs McDonnell's yard, where a robbery was committed on the previous night. Fortunately in both places the booty obtained was inconsiderable. It appeared that about ten o'clock Head Constable Wall and some constables while on duty observed a light in an office in the yard where orders were taken; a window of which looks out in Bedford Row. The light was quietly placed in the office, to hide observations, it being probably surmised that it was Saturday night, it would be presumed the clerks were employed up to a more than usual late hour. The Head-constable's suspicions were however aroused, and he with some of his men quietly placed in the office, and by getting over the walls. The burglar, however, on a very sharp look out, and no doubt seeing the police outside through the window considered it full time to "shape." This he did, with alacrity, for when the police got inside no trace of the thief could be found. Thinking he might have been concealed among the timber, a minute search was made, during which Constable Hannan found, carefully secreted, a gold watch and some coppers which the burglar probably had in his possession. It is supposed that he effected his escape by climbing over the wall into the street, and means are being used to track him. No arrest has yet been made by the constabulary, but full enquiries are being instituted into the case.

CONSECRATION

OF THE

MOST REV. DR. O'DWYER,

ROMAN CATHOLIC

LORD BISHOP OF LIMERICK.

The vacancy of the R. C. See of Limerick created recently by the death of the Most Rev Dr Butler, was filled to-day, when the Most Rev Dr Edward Thomas O'Dwyer was consecrated by the Most Rev Dr Croke, Archbishop of Cashel, assisted by Rev Dr McCarthy and Rev Dr O'Higgins. The following are the names of the Venerable Archbishop and Bishops present on the High Altar.—The Most Rev Dr Croke, Archbishop of Cashel and Emly (officiating Prelate); the Most Rev Dr Pierce Power, Coadjutor Bishop of Waterford and Lismore; the Most Rev Dr O'Higgins, Bishop of Kerry; the Most Rev Dr McCarthy, Bishop of Cloyne; the Most Rev Dr O'Callaghan, Coadjutor Bishop of Cork; the Most Rev Dr Fitzgerald, Bishop of Ross; the Most Rev Dr Ryan, Coadjutor Bishop of Killaloe; the Most Rev Dr Carr, Bishop of Galway; the Most Rev Dr Lynch, Coadjutor Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin; the Most Rev Dr Healy, Bishop of Clonfert; the Most Rev Dr McCormack, Bishop of Achonry. The Bishop-elect's chaplains were—The Rev J. S. Flanagan, P.P. Adare; and the Rev C. M. Namara, Stonehall. The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

The ceremony of consecration is of such rare occurrence in this city, that naturally there was an unusual amount of bustle observable during the day, and a considerable influx of visitors, especially of the clergy from all parts of the county.

the cause of Ireland. Drogheda, Wexford, Carrington, Kilkenny, and other places were pillaged. The noble-hearted Bishop of Ross was laid before the people because he steadfastly refused to counsel them to surrender the strong City by the Lee; and Heber McMahon was brutally murdered by Cooté even after he had been promised quarter. Thus one Archbishop and two Bishops were slain, and the cause for the faith and cause of Ireland. But the end was not come as yet. Limerick still remained the best stronghold of Irish freedom. On 3rd June, 1651, the soldiers of Ireton opened the siege of the doomed city. There were within it, besides its garrison, the Bishop of Ross, the Bishop of Down, Dr O'Dwyer, Dr Terence O'Brien, Bishop of Emly, Dr O. Molony, the lion hearted Bishop of Killaloe, together with 200 Ecclesiastics. The siege continued for five months, during which two thousand soldiers died and five thousand of the inhabitants perished chiefly by the frightful plague which raged so long during the whole time of the siege. During the progress of the siege the Bishop of Emly summoned the offer made to him by Ireton of 40,000 golden crowns if he would only cease to urge the citizens to resistance and leave the city. Later on in order that he might save the lives of those who had been exempted from quarter in the terms offered by the besiegers, and at the very end of the siege was prolonged for a fortnight through the exertions and resources of all the Bishops of Ireland. When the city fell, the Bishop of Emly, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Killaloe, but through the whole time of the siege he prayed to God that the city and the desecration of her churches. God heard his prayer, for he died after a few days illness, just before the Puritans entered the captive city. Dr O'Dwyer, who was also exempted from quarter, escaped in the garb of a soldier, and after a few days departed for Brussels, where he died a few days later. The same fate awaited the Bishop of Down, who was hanged before the people, exhorted them with his last breath to be true to the faith and cause of their country. The same fate awaited the Bishop