Loughmore. The party then doubled back in the direction of Patrickswell and drew Greenmount, again successfully. Another hare was unearthed, and gave a splendid run, lasting for half-an-hour or three quarters. The party went across from Doonee to Greenhills, where there was a third found, and after a short run the harriers succeeded in vanquishing their prey. The party then broke up, after a capital day's sport. Amongst those out were—Miss May Phelps, Miss Alice Phelps, Miss Cox, Miss Butler, Mr Edgar L. Phelps, Mr J. Phelps, Major Hemans, Mr Connihan, sol, Mr Smith, Mr Egan, &c, &c.

BALLYNETTY PETTY SESSIONS.—The magistrates presiding at these sessions were—Mr J Russell (in the chair), Col Pearse, R.M., Captain Croker, and Mr H. S. Croker. Captain Croker prosecuted Patrick Sheehan, John Whelan, John Hartigan, and John Hayes, who gave their address as Skule Bog, for having been found on complainant's land in pursuit of game at Grange on the night of the 12th December last. Wm Selbourne, the gamekeeper, proved to having found them there three times on that night, and to having taken 21 rabbit traps and five rabbits from them. The accused pleaded guilty and were sentenced to one month's imprisonment each, and to a further term of six months in default of finding sureties that they will not repeat the offence for 12 months. Mr Blackall, sol, Limerick conducted the prosecution. Capt Croker did not adjudicate. After the hearing of a few cases of minor importance the court adjourned.

THE HOME INDUSTRIES MOVEMENT IN CLONMEL.—A few evenings since the second annual meeting of the Clonmel Industries Association was held in the Lecture Hall of the Literary Institute, Clonmel. The ex-Mayor, Councillor Wright, in the unavoidable absence of the Mayor, Alderman Cantwell, presided, and there was a very large attendance, principally of working men. Mr Parr, hon sec, read the annual report and statement of accounts. It appeared that after paying off all expenses, the association has now a balance of £5 in hands after the year. Mr D J Clancy, T.C, solicitor, moved the adoption of the report, which was seconded by Mr Hennessy, and agreed to. Mr Arnold Graves then came forward and delivered a very able and interesting lecture on the subject of technical education, and pointed out the manner in which they could establish a technical school in Clonmel, and how it could be carried out. He was warmly applauded throughout, and received a vote of thanks at the close.

ROBBERY OF AN OFFICER'S SWORD.—Some excitement was occasioned at the New Barracks on Saturday night consequent on a report that the officers' quarters had been visited by some individual unknown, and that some time afterwards a sword was missing. It appears that a butcher named Davies, a native of Sligo, who had been discharged from the Leinster Regiment five years ago, was invited to the barracks on Saturday by some of his former comrades for a friendly chat. Of course the friends had some drink on the happy occasion, and some time after Davies left to go down town. When passing out the gate it is alleged that the sergeant on guard noticed something like a sabre beneath the man's coat, but did not interfere. On the robbery being reported to the police, this circumstance was, no doubt, mentioned, and on Sunday last Davies was arrested by Sergeant Whelan and taken to William-street Barrack. No sword, however, was found in his possession. Accused was remanded by Mr Irwin, E.M.

ANOTHER MOONLIGHT OUTRAGE IN KERRY.—

DEATH OF DR. O'CONNELL, KILMALLOCK.

We regret to record the death of this well-known and highly respected practitioner, which took place at his residence, Kilmallock, a few days since. Dr O'Connell's life was a distinguished one in many respects, and it may not be out of place to illustrate a few of the principal features connected with it. His collegiate career was a brilliant one. After taking his several degrees at Trinity College, Dublin, Oxford, Cambridge, and Glasgow, he travelled through the greater part of Europe, particularly France and Spain. About the year 1830 he joined the British Legion, and went out with Sir A. Dacy to suppress the rebellion which then arose to dethrone Queen Isabella. He acted as a military officer (there being no medical vacancy at the time), and took an active part in all the engagements which took place between the years 1830 and 1835. One worthy of note was the famous battle of Christino, on the banks of the Ebro, where he displayed great gallantry in attending to the wounded soldiers in the midst of a raging fight, and where he nearly lost his life. On several other occasions he showed dauntless courage, and splendid prowess, for which he was fully rewarded. He was presented by the Queen with the beautiful gold medal and blas of the Legion of Honour, bearing the inscription—"Spain intends to show her gratitude." King Ferdinand then conferred on him the honour of Knight of the Order of St Ferdinand, for medical treatment during her Majesty Queen Isabella's confinement. On returning home, with wreaths of honours from England and Spain, he left the British Army, being then presented with his sword and uniform, and a magnificent pair of gold epaulets, and settled down in Kilmallock to commence private practice and to rest, after many years of labour and hardship. When the workhouse was built and the union established, he was appointed medical officer for the dispensary and house, as well as getting charge of the rural sanitary district. The public positions he has filled for a period of forty-five years with the utmost satisfaction, and without even a single complaint for that very considerable period. He always showed an eager and zealous desire to perform his duties faithfully and well, and was much esteemed and admired for the systematic manner in which he fulfilled his onerous position. His death is deeply regretted by a very large circle of friends, not alone in Kilmallock, but throughout the entire county and outside it, where the deceased gentleman was well known personally or otherwise. The funeral took place on Saturday, the cortege, including some two thousand people of all classes and creeds. The chief mourners were—Mr T H Brett, manager of the Munster and Linstock Bank, Middleton, son in law of deceased; Messrs W F Barry, J P, and C E Barry, M D, Kanturk, both nephews-in-law; Mr W F O'Shaughnessy, solicitor, Charleville, nephew of deceased, and several other near relations. The following, amongst others, sent carriages, and were present in person—Doctors McNamara and Riordan, Bruff; Dr Donovan, Kilmallock; Doctors Cremin and Sullivan, Charleville; Doctors Cleary, Downes, and Sheedy, Kilmallock; Messrs J Bailey, J P; J Bennett, J P; J H Weldon, J P; M A Bolster, W A Smith, M Ryan, K Ryan, W F M Kiernan, and the Masters M Kiernan, T W O'Sullivan, &c. The remains were interred in the family burying ground at Ballingaddy.

QUARRELSOME IN ENNIS.

The Master complained to the Board of the able-bodied paupers rowing with each other, and put into the pumps, and in consequence to get water from the town, a not work. He asked the Board to severely with two able-bodied paupers, McInerney and Gorman.

Mr McInerney—There was a discharge of these men if the Board is not carried out?

The Master also reported that the remains of a pauper were missing from the house.

Mr Grogan—Why are not the paupers under lock and key?

Chairman (to the Master)—I have not the evidence to show that these paupers are in the house, and did away with the pump, and did away with the Master—I have not, sir.
