20,658 MILES ON A "SHANNON" BICYCLE.

A highly popular and well-known manufacturer in this city, whose name for the present is withheld, states that on a "Shannon" bicycle built for him in 1899 by Messrs. Cole, Nelson and Co., he has ridden an average of 11 miles each working day (Sunday runs not included), and which totals up to 20,658 miles. He says that the machine is still running smoothly, and he thinks it is much more reliable than many of the foreign new bicycles purchased in the city this year.
