TWENTY-ONE years in the confectionery trade—and this week's profits going to charity—behind these few lines of introduction lies the story of one of Limerick's best-known business women—Mrs. Edith Harrington.

Mrs. Edith Harrington commenced business twenty-one years ago when she opened "Kakes and Kandies" in Thomas Street, Limerick, under her personal management.

From this small beginning, and in spite of war-time shortages of essential commodities, she maintained a very high standard of quality which earned her the custom not only of Limerick City but also the surrounding districts.

Seven years later she acquired the then premises of the Augustinian Priory and transferred her flourishing business to the bigger accommodation — and something which she had long desired—an address in O'Connell Street. In the intervening years, the name of Mrs. Harrington became synonymous with all that is best in confectionery, and a "Kakes and Kandies" purchase promised only one thing—an unforgettable treat.

Many new lines were introduced down through the years until to-day, "Kakes and Kandies" is one of the leading establishments of its kind in the South of Ireland.

Mrs. Harrington still continues to be the guiding hand of her establishment, and last year underwent a refresher course of instruction from the world-famous Mr. R. Adams, who made the wedding cake for Princess Margaret.

Some of her daughters have also entered the business and one of them, Brenda, gained the distinction of securing the National Diploma and City and Guilds certificates, also several prizes in exhibitions.

These include a first and second at Blackpool and Fylde Show.

She also exhibited at the Olympia Show in London, no mean feat for a young girl from Limerick in competition with the world's finest!

"Kakes & Kandies" execute orders for some of the leading titled, professional and business people in this country, and are constantly receiving repeat orders as well as letters of appreciation. Yes, it has been a memorable 21 years of service, in which the family have given their time and skill to making confectionery of unsurpassed quality—even in the low priced range.

To celebrate 21 years in business, Mrs. Harrington—ever in the forefront where the needs of charity are concerned, is again helping a deserving cause—the Foreign Missions—which happily coincides with Mission Week.

To this end she is donating the entire profits of this week's trading.

May we join with the many advertisers on this page in extending our sincere congratulations to Mrs. Harrington and family on this very happy occasion and to wish them every success in the years ahead.
