PATRICK Street continues to be one of Limerick city's busiest streets for shoppers looking for the best in clothes for men.

Now that the Opera Centre has been brought into state ownership, the City Council believes it will be sooner than later that Patrick Street and Ellen Street gets a multi-million euro shopping centre to rival any other in the country.

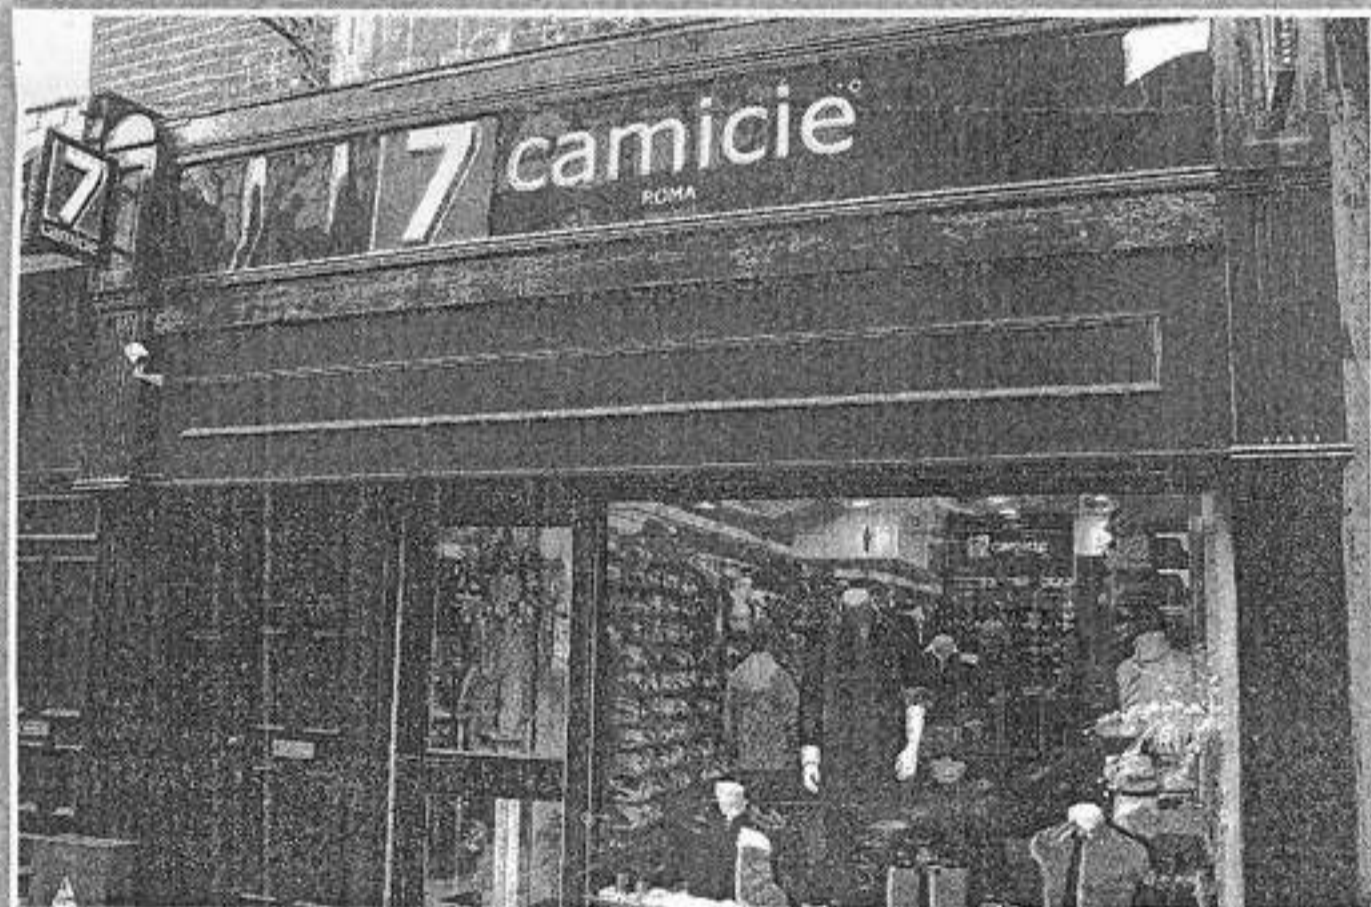

Shoppers have always used Patrick Street for the incredibly stylish clothing outlets.

Other businesses offer modern hair and beauty salons, fashionable youth clothing, jewellery stores, newsagents, pharmacies and ATM outlets.

Historically, Patrick Street has always been very important to the citizens of Limerick as it was once home to the Town Hall in the 1930s and also where the City Printing Offices were located and run by the Dalton family.

In the 1950s Patrick Street was introduced to two-way traffic, which still operates on the street adjacent to Limerick's Arthur's Quay shopping centre, some eighty years on.

To Valued Customers of 7 Camicie ...

PHEW, what a year it's been! 7 Camicie really cannot believe that it's only been 12 months since we opened the doors on Patrick Street. Opening a new business is a daunting task but with 12 months under our belts, we can now say that, yes, despite the recession, 2011 was a brilliant year at 7 Camicie.

We have made loads of new friends as our service is so personal it's difficult not to get to know everyone. All of our clients have been an invaluable help in their advice, suggestions and word-of-mouth advertising. For this reason we will be eternally grateful.
