

Dr Pat Wallace to launch book on Stonehall Harriers Hunt

A NEW book on the Stonehall Harriers Hunt will be launched on November 5, by Dr Pat Wallace, director of the National Museum of Ireland.

Dr John Feheny, author of Stonehall Harriers Centenary Record, has combed the archives of the Hunt in his efforts to tell this great story in pictures and words.

The launch will take place at Kilcornan Community Centre, Road, at 7.30 pm.

A large group of friends and supporters of the Hunt are expected, with entertainment by The World Music Centre of the University of Limerick.

Invited are Michael O'Shaughnessy and Ivan McDonogh, current Masters of Hounds, together with Brian Moran, Huntsman, Whips Timothy Handley, Gabriel Quinn and John Finucane will act as host for the evening.

The attractively-produced book contains over 250 photographs, many of historical value.

Personalities mentioned or featured in photographs include John McDonogh, the founder, his son, Paddy McDonogh, first Master, the late Betty Hewson and George Kennedy, both Joint Masters, and George's wife, Marjorie, who rode with the Stonehalls for 40 years.

The well-known novelist, Dorothea White, nee Conyers, was a regular supporter of the Stonehalls, as was the late Brigadier Hewson. Captain Harry Freeman-Jackson, who represented Ireland in Equestrian sports in five Olympics, also rode with the Stonehalls for a quarter of a
