SHOW OF BROOD MARES.

A show of brood mares was held at Croom on Monday for the purpose of obtaining nominations for the County Limerick agricultural stock scheme. The number of mares shown was large and of a superior class. The selection was found much difficulty in making selections were all were so good.

THE PARSON'S ADVICE TO CHURCHGOERS.

A clergyman of Ramsey (Isle of Man), on returning home after attending service at a church, found that the burglars had ransacked the place, and had annexed all the money they could lay hands on. They had also emptied the larder, and left a note telling the tenant to "watch as you pray."

POLICEMEN AS BISHOPS.

Mr. Diggle, speaking at the opening of the new Police Institute, said the police officers represented the majesty of the law and the majesty of the law needed great support, because upon it depended the peace and happiness of the people. While he was speaking the bishop to be thought of as a policeman, he would like to see the policeman appointed as a bishop.

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE.

"Ladies of the Daffodil" gave a very successful entertainment at the County Courthouse last evening. The ballroom, supper room, etc., were most tastefully decorated with yellow and drapery of a similar hue, relieved with emeralds, while the staircases were decorated with crimson druggot. There was a large and fashionable attendance from city and county, and dancing was kept up till the early "wee hours."

the North Riding Grand Jury, a prominent member of the Representative Church Body, and one of the very few country gentry who were popularly elected on our County Council and made Chairman of the Financial Committee an eloquent testimony to the high opinion entertained for Mr. Parker by the electorate of the division which he represented up to the time of his death. He attended nearly every meeting of the last two bodies since their inception. He is gone from among us, but it will be long before his memory will be forgotten by the people of Duharra.

VOTES OF CONDOLENCE.

At the North Tipperary Assizes yesterday, on the motion of Captain Gibson, seconded by Mr. C. E. Tuthill, the Grand Jury passed the following resolution of sympathy:—

"That we, the Grand Jury of the County of Tipperary (North Riding), desire to place on record our deep regret at the recent death of Mr. Anthony Parker, who was one of the oldest and most respected members of our body, and who was universally esteemed by everyone who had the pleasure of his acquaintance.

"We also desire to convey to his son and representative, Mr. Standish Parker-Hutchinson, and the other members of his family, our sincere sympathy with them in their sad bereavement and the irreparable loss which they have sustained.

DEATH OF MR. T. WALL BRUFF.

Mr. T. Wall died at his residence, near Bruff on Saturday evening after a brief illness, surviving his respected wife only three or four weeks. A Requiem Mass was celebrated in Bruff Roman Catholic Church on Monday at 11 o'clock after which the remains were removed to Limerick for interment. The funeral was largely attended by many friends throughout the surrounding districts, as well by a large number of the clergy of the city and county of Limerick, who also officiated at the church.

WHOSE WEDDING RING?

A blacksmith, at Aswarby, near Sleaford, received from a neighbouring farmstead a set of harrows for repairs, and while these were being executed a 22-carat gold wedding ring was found sticking on to one of the teeth of the implement. It is supposed that the ring was lost on the land and that it was picked up by the harrows in the course of their work.

HOW TO SCARE SPARROWS.

Those who keep a bird-table in their gardens may get much fresh amusement from it by adding a little mirror to its furnishing. One marked advantage of the looking-glass, if placed at such an angle that the birds see their reflections as they alight at the table, is that it entirely scares away the sparrows, at any rate, for some time.

HARRIS'S MACHINE-MADE BREAD

Limerick in the result has lost of what might be a great impetus towards reducing the present number of its traders and ratepayers. Near the Weir there was a paucity and it was there that Ginckel over to the siege which ended of the city and the signing of the Treaty of Limerick. The garrison fort protecting the pass and derided, but the fort in question, still stands sentinel over the scene of the Dutch general's

STORY OF THE ### OLD ADARE MAN

We have to-day received the will of the old Adare veteran, who was the recipient of an additional pension from the King:—

"Plympton, near Plymouth, 1st

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK

"DEAR SIR—Just a few lines that I have received a letter from you. It runs as follows—'I am directed that the King has been graciously pleased to confer on you as a reward for your highly meritorious service an annuity of ten pounds (£10), to be paid on the 1st April, 1904, inclusive.'

"I was born in Adare, that is in Limerick, but I have not been in Limerick since 1857. Give my very best regards to all your old Limerick friends. I will be next, so I suppose I will never see you again. My address is—Richards Road, Plympton, Devonshire."

[May the old soldier live long and receive a too adequate reward for services to his country.—ED.]

HOW GENERAL TREPPOFF'S NAME.

The Governor of St. Petersburg, says "Vanity Fair," has an ordinary origin, if so it may be. A German workingman, who had been employed in a house in St. Peterburg, one morning discovered a baby in the case of his master's place. He gave it the name of Trepoff. The Russian way of writing Trepoff in German, means "on the stairs."
