the endeavours of Parliament at the prefent fitting to check the injurious and alarming progressor mis use made of spirituous liquors, are in the highest degree patriotic, and it was with infinite pleafure, we found the fitbject Introduced white house of commons, by the Chancellor of he Exchequer, and the removal of the evil patrufed under fanction of the flate. Whateve benefit the revenue might be fuppoled to obin, from the extention of the diffilleries, the alle is thought infinitely in ferior to the great Prpofe of making a reformation in the mora of the people, and the confequent fuccess of Yuftry and trade. It is with the Commission's themselves, to give a check to the enormity; this mitchief; and we may foon after expect, hat the improvement of the malt brewery 1 be the faintary effect which must follow.
