operation of the monopoly thus not merely against British subjects, but against the British nation.

reason can be assigned against it, because the supposed delinquent interference with that people by the success which has attended; and the same means which any to manage their affairs in under the authority of God, deal difficulty of the collection the trade being divided, is fully safety with which the duties are at Indian and American promulgated hardship of depriving a lucrative branch of their meted by the wealth, influence, and power, which in their united capabilities to oppose to the unassisted.

effect of throwing open the market to a fair emulation; to bring all to its proper level in this manufacturing to exert their skill and energy, to produce new sources of full employment to the opportunity.

confining the East Indian trade to a few unnecessary, unjust, and impolitic duties may be considered less loss by pilferage, in the use every mercantile place is entitled to the same privileges; the superior economy and discipline of our ports, are requisite to competition with foreign nations. The success of a beneficial prosecution by this country, seems now to be of its freedom, as it is proved that, if it be allowed to remain in its present form, it will languish away, and other states.

opposed to arise from excess of competition of an open commerce is imaginary; because the entire is uniformly circumscribed by their laws, and any evil of this nature is not itself; and because the very event of the abandonment of it, would be, that matters again in their present state.

en the anti-commercial system has been successfully exerted to exclude us from the market; when the prosecution of an anti-commercial system is necessary to adopt every measure to increase our revenue; and when our existence depends in a great degree on the maintenance of our ports, it is dispensably requisite, to open the market of trade, for the preservation of our maritime, and financial interests.

fully satisfied that the injury done by the monopoly, must be proportionate to the extent of the monopoly; and that the necessity of a free intercourse with the most populous and extensive countries, is a necessity which is not to be sacrificed to the former; and that the interference with the territorial privileges of the company, is a necessary consequence of the removal of these resolutions, to be immediately adopted before the approaching meeting, and accompanied by the re-communication to members of both Houses, of every commercial and manufacturing interest in the United Kingdom, and of the nation at large, by petitioning parliament to refuse to grant the India Company's monopoly; and that James Finlay, Chairman; James Buchanan; James Hopkirk, Alexander, James Ewing, A. D. Campbell, James Buchanan, J. Buchanan, and Dugald Bannatyne, be appointed a committee, with full powers to carry the same into effect.

THE GENERAL ADVERTISER.

LIMERICK—TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1813.

The vast accumulation of interesting intelligence this day, precludes the possibility of our making any observations on the passing events. We have only room to refer to the catholic requisition, for a meeting to be held at the Commercial Buildings, on Friday next—to the meeting of the protestant noblemen and gentlemen in London, for the purpose of signing a petition to both houses of parliament, in favor of catholic emancipation—and to the resolutions of the county of Clare catholic meeting; (the proceedings of which we will give a full account of in our next.)

Some advertisements, and local paragraphs of minor importance, we are obliged to postpone.

For the resolutions of the chamber of commerce and manufactures of Glasgow, see advertising columns.

We are extremely sorry to state that the Rev. Standish Grady, of Carrig-on-Suir, has last week suffered a most afflictive loss in the death of his four children, one of whom was unfortunately overlaid by the nurse, and the three others fell victims to the chine cough.

In compliment to the attention of Mr. Anthony Swinburn, of the Limerick Hotel, to the gentlemen of the Munster Bar, they have presented him with a very large and highly ornamented work-box.—See Advertisements.

MEETING AT THE THATCHED HOUSE.

LONDON—TUESDAY, MARCH 3.

Yesterday, pursuant to public notice, there was a numerous meeting of Noblemen and Gentlemen of the Protestant religion, connected with Ireland, to consider the propriety of signing petitions to both houses of Parliament, in favour of catholic emancipation.—The meeting was attended by the Dukes of Bedford, Devonshire, the Marquises of Lansdowne and Downshire, Earls Fitzwilliam and Moira, Lords Dudley and Ward, Mr. Grattan, Sir John Newport, Mr. Tighe, and many other Noblemen and Gentlemen.—Earl Fitzwilliam in the chair.

Sir J. Newport then addressed the meeting, and proposed a committee of seven persons, to carry the purpose of the meeting into effect. The following were the names of the committee:—

- | | |
|--------------------------|-------------------------|
| The Duke of Devonshire, | Right Hon. G. Ponsonby |
| The Marquis of Downshire | R. La Touche, Esq. |
| The Earl of Moira, | Sir John Newport, Bart. |
| The Earl of Darley, | |

Who are invested with a discretionary power to add four to their number, if necessary. The meeting adjourned till Monday, the 6th of April, to receive the report of the committee.

The following are the contents of the petition:—

The petition of the undersigned protestant noblemen and gentlemen, connected by birth or property with that part of the United Kingdom called Ireland.

"We, the subscribers hereunto, do most humbly petition your Lordships in favour of our brethren and fellow-subjects, the persons professing the Roman catholic religion. They apply to parliament to be admitted to the privileges and Franchises of the constitution.

We, their protestant brethren, do consider such application to be just. We do most hartly join the catholics in this their loyal and reasonable request; and, convinced of its policy, as well as its justice, we do most zealously implore your Lordships to comply with the prayer of the said petition, and to relieve the persons professing the Roman catholic religion, from all civil and political disabilities."

The Endymion, and Surcilante, frigates have arrived at Plymouth—the former from Cork, and the latter to refit.

The Resolute, of 14 guns, has sailed from Plymouth with a small convoy for Cork.

The officers and men of his Majesty's ship Acute wished to subscribe three days pay to the relief of the widows and families of the officers and men lately lost in the Baltic, but the board of admiralty would not allow such an expression of sympathy, being beyond what is usual, and likely to injure their own families.

MARRIED—On Thursday last, in Dublin, by special license, at the house of G. Bushe, Esq. the Right Hon. Lord Ennismore, to Miss Latham, daughter of the late John Latham, of Meidrum, county Tipperary, Esq.

DIED—Thursday morning last, at Gibbings Grove, county Cork, after a painful and lingering illness, sincerely and deservedly lamented, the Rev. Richard Gibbings.—In Dublin, Patrick O'Brien, Esq. Attorney.—Thursday morning, in the South Main-street, Cork, Mrs. Knight.
