DUBLIN, March 15.

Yesterday a deputation, appointed by delegates from the body of the Roman Catholics of Ireland, waited on the Secretary at the Castle with a copy of a petition which that body of the people mean to present to Parliament.

We hear that the above petition is for a relaxation of the Penal Laws against the Roman Catholics, in order to attain the support of government.

The Earl of Fingal headed the deputation from the Roman Catholics; who yesterday waited on the Secretary.

Tho' the essence of bark was said to have failed in the first experiment for tanning hides or skins, yet it is highly probable; that upon further trials, it might be found to answer the purpose intended. Some unskilful mode adopted in the process, or perhaps some neglect in the persons employed by the tanner, might have occasioned the failure alluded to. This, however, is evident, that it is the essence contained in the bark which alone effects the tannage; large quantities might be procured, every year from America, at a comparatively cheap price to what is now paid, but otherwise, the freightage of such an article, in a rough state, coming such a distance, and being so bulky, would render it much too dear.

Extract of a letter from London.

"The convicts on board the ships bound to Botany Bay were found to have used a very extraordinary stratagem to run away from the ships, by having spring saws concealed in their hair, and between the soles of their shoes, for the purpose of sawing off their irons.

"This stratagem was discovered by one of the convicts having on a very old pair of shoes, and was discovered through the openness of the sole. A general search was then made, and upwards of 200 convicts had saws found on them."

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Monday, March 14.

Mr. BUSH reported from the committee appointed to try the merits of the Queen's co-petition, that the Hon. Edw. Moore, commonly called Lord Moore, was not duly elected for that county.

That R. Warburton, Esq; was duly elected for said county. The house having agreed to this report, the clerk of the Hanaper was di-the Peace for the County of Clare.

Tuesday, eight men and three women under sentence of transportation, arrived here from Armagh and Monaghan; and yesterday they were transmitted hence to Cork, to sail for Botany Bay.

There will be an eclipse of the sun on the 3d of next month, which will be visible to all Europe, part of Asia, Africa and America. To the north of Scotland it will be a very great eclipse—but no where total, on account of the apparent diameter of the moon, at that time, being less than the apparent diameter of the sun (the moon being near her Apogee); therefore, along the track of central appearance, the spectators will be entertained with a beautiful Annulus, or ring of light, encompassing the opaque body of the moon on every side.— This beautiful appearance will pass over Iceland, where they will be entertained with this novel sight about 12 o'clock at noon. This central and annular appearance first begins with the rising sun in the back settlements of Carolina and Virginia; from whence it traverses Hudson's Bay, north-easterly, towards the coast of Greenland, Iceland, and Lapland, and the northern coast of Great Tartary, where this phenomenon will end, and quit the earth with the setting sun.

On the morning of Saturday the 12th inst was seized near the Bay of Liscannon, in the West of the Co. Clare, by Messrs. Stritch and Murray Excise Officers, and Mr. Slattery preventing Officer, assisted by a detachment of the 69th Regiment, now lying at Clare Castle, a great quantity of smuggled Tobacco and Whiskey, &c. where they broke several machines for manufacturing tobacco, and destroyed two extensive private Distilleries, one of which on the spot, where sometime ago a large party of his Majesty's troops, were beat off and deprived of their arms; much credit is due to Lieuts.
Richardson, and Coates, for the conduct, sobriety, and good order of the troops commanded by them, on the above fatiguing expedition.
