House of Commons was on Friday last, chiefly in a discussion of the gold coin bill, and its application to Ireland. The bill went through a committee of the house, in a division of 87 to 27, had an amendment moved by Mr. Parnell, to discontinue proceedings for fourteen days, in order to afford select committee to inquire into its operation and interests of that country. In the course of the discussion the Chancellor of the Exchequer took an opportunity of stating the amount of the revenue in the last year, ending the 5th of April, current. It appears, that though the customs have fallen, the excise has improved in the amount of about £1,000,000, however, the product of a new duty, on wine, has raised about 400,000. The totals are: Excise, 1812—17,950,000. 1811—17,399,000.

Amount of the whole taxes of the country estimated about a million, as confessed by the gentleman, who stated that of 1812 to be £1,000,000; while that of 1811 was 62,136,000.

It has already been said respecting the cargoes of the Carlisham, that we feel unwilling to make any statement, lest we should mislead those interested parties; we have been assured, however, that the parties which have been for some time pending subject have come so nearly to a close, that we have it now under consideration, to afford the proprietors gratuitous licences for the removal of the same from that port to any lawful market.

On Monday morning last between twelve and one o'clock a considerable number of people, stilling themselves as threshers, came into the town of Lanesboro, where they broke open two stores, and committed great damage, until opposed by a detachment of militia, quartered there, and the Yeomanry whom they had the audacity to fire at. The fire was returned by the military in a manner; on which the threshers fled leaving several killed—they were pursued and two of them were wounded, taken prisoners—the one named Glennan, mortally wounded; the other named Healdan, shot thro' the legs;—they were taken to Rosecommon jail, on Saturday, by Richard Smith Sheriff.

BOTANY BAY.—Letters from New South Wales, of the 20th May, state, that great improvements have taken place in that colony, since the accession of Col. Macquarrie to the government. The large town of Sidney is now planned and laid out in regular streets, and divided into districts, with the head-boroughs, sub-constables, watchmen, &c. &c. Darcy Wentworth has been appointed the head of the Police. Five townships have been laid out on the Hawkesbury and George rivers. The roads from Sydney to Parramatta Hawkesbury, which were scarcely passable, have been repaired, bridges thrown over the streams, and turnpikes established. Butchers' meat from 1s. to 1s. 3d. per pound, and the supply of the colony equal to the consumption. Wool was likely to be the first staple of commerce. Settlers of good character were furnished with live stock, from the Government stores, on consideration of paying the value, in money or grain in eighteen months. The population of Sydney is estimated at ten thousand souls, of which number, eight thousand have been sent from England as convicts.
